Laos Parley Delay Looms

79 Perish In Crash Of French Airliner

Big Plane Falls In Sahara; Five Americans Die

ALGIERS (AP) — A French airliner en route from the heart of Africa to Paris under ideal weather conditions crashed in the Sahara Wednesday killing all 79 aboard.

The victims included five members of an American career diplomat's family and his unborn fourth child.

Air France announced the four-engine Super Constellation carried 69 passengers and 10 crew members after an earlier statement had listed 69 aboard.

The airline identified the Americans as the wife, three children and mother of Alan Lukens, U.S. charge d'affaires at Bangui, capital of the Central African Republic. Most of the other victims French or African.

Africa's Worst Crash

It was the worst crash in the history of the African continent.

Air France said visibility was unlimited with cloudless skies at the time of the crash. The plane had undergone a thorough inspection April 29, the airline said.

Word of the Lukens family tragedy first came in a report from Lukens' diplomatic post at Bangui.

Search planes spotted the wreckage of the Super Constellation in rolling sand dunes about 450 miles southeast of Algiers.

Radio reports said the plane was completely smashed and there was no sign of life. Airline officials were unable to give any immediate indication of the cause of the crash.

The Bangui report said Mrs. Lukens was flying to Europe to a clinic for the birth of her fourth child. She was accompanied by her three children, a girl, 6, and two sons, 4 and 3.

Veteran Crew Aboard

Lukens' mother was Mrs. Edward C. Lukens of Philadelphia.

Lukens, 37, a member of the U.S. Foreign Service since 1951, was transferred to the Central African Republic Feb. 10.

A veteran crew of nine was flying the plane. Chief pilot Robert Bouchier, 39, had 13,000 hours of flight time.

The plane left Brazzaville, capital of the former French Congo, Tuesday, and made one stop at Fort Lamy, Chad. It was reported by radio when it was over Edjele, Algeria, near the Libyan border early Wednesday.

A vast search was launched by French military aircraft when nothing further was heard from the plane.

Allies Pledge World-Wide Red Defense

NATO Will Widen Activities Beyond Its Defined Region

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Fifteen Atlantic allies pledged Wednesday to defend vital areas around the globe against the menace of the Communist bloc. And they promised again to stand firm in West Berlin.

Foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization wound up a three-day meeting with a major decision to widen their activities beyond the defined region of their alliance.

Secretary-General Dirk U. Stikker of the Netherlands and other delegates speaking privately, credited this achievement to U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He had sought with only partial success to instill a life-and-death sense of urgency.

It means NATO has recognized the total diplomacy conducted by the Soviet bloc on all the fronts of the East-West cold war can best be countered by the West's own total diplomacy.

"The menace which drew them (the allies) together is now not only military but also has worldwide political, economic, scientific and psychological aspects," the final communique observed.

Counter Soviet Policy

"Confident in their strength, in the will of their peoples and in the truth of the ideals they uphold, the 15 Atlantic nations dedicate themselves anew to building a world free from the false doctrine of continuing and inevitable conflict."

Soviet Premier Khrushchev contends that, even in an era of so-called peaceful coexistence, Communists everywhere work to topple capitalism.

The front displayed toward the Soviet bloc looked solid although the Scandinavians, British, and Canadians lost no chance to stress the need to negotiate.

On some issues within Europe dissensions appeared. There was resistance to efforts to beef up conventional arms and armies in mainland Europe. Besides the costs this would involve reintroduction of the draft. There was still pressure on Portugal to quit what was generally seen as a policy of suppression in its West African colony of Angola.

As the conference ended, foreign ministers of Britain, Canada, France and the United States hurried off to face a crucial new challenge from the East—a meeting in Geneva of 14 nations over the fate of Laos.

Polaris Sub Offer Accepted

Other actions by the NATO council:

1. It accepted a pledge by President Kennedy's administration to deploy by 1963 at least five Polaris-carrying nuclear submarines in the Mediterranean area for the defense of Europe.

2. It noted a U.S. pledge to regard the defense of Europe as part of the defense of the United States itself.

3. It arranged for a three-man fact-finding mission to visit Greece and Turkey as the first step toward launching a massive economic aid program to ease the poverty that stalks those two NATO lands.

4. It agreed to set up expert study groups on some of the world's major trouble areas—Africa, the Middle East, Asia, Latin America — as part of a streamlined consultative process.

Ex-Newsboy Saves 90,000 Pennies

David Thrun, 26, former newspaper carrier boy, started saving pennies when he was 13 years old. In 13 years he saved 90,000 pennies which he turned into a Jackson, Mich., bank. The pennies weighed 684 pounds, 38 pounds to a bag. Miss Marjorie Palmer, teller, was somewhat overwhelmed at the prospect of counting the coppers. (AP Photofax)

Geneva Talks Slated Friday; Rusk Arrives

Secretary Won't Take Part Unless Truce Confirmed

GENEVA (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk arrived Wednesday night for the 14-nation conference on Laos amid doubts that the sessions will get under way on schedule Friday.

Rusk said he would take part in the conference "if information from Laos permits it."

Rusk, as well as other Western officials, have declared they would refuse to take part unless there is a real cease-fire between Communist and anti-Communist forces.

Three leading members of an Indian - Canadian - Polish control commission, whose job is to certify that a cease-fire is in effect, finally left for headquarters of Communist and neutralist rebel headquarters at Xieng Khouang in Laos Wednesday after being rebuffed on Tuesday.

Random fighting continued, but there has been no serious outbreak for a week.

Despite uncertainty as to when the conference may open, Rusk was the fourth delegate to arrive.

Gromkyo On Hand

He was preceded by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who said the Soviet Union would make "every effort to solve the Laotian problem justly and without procrastination and stamp out a hotbed of war danger."

Gromyko was followed by Chang Yen, secretary-general of the Red China delegation. Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi was expected later.

Another Communist leader, Ung Van Khiem, foreign minister of North Viet Nam, also arrived. In the same plane was a delegation headed by Information Minister Quinim Pholsena from the neutralist Laotian faction of Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Aside from the United States, Britain, France, the Soviet Union, Red China, North and South Viet Nam and Laos, these countries have been invited: Canada, Thailand, Poland, Burma, India and Cambodia.

A spokesman in London said Britain hopes for confirmation of the cease-fire in time for the conference to get under way on schedule.

Attendance of Thailand and Cambodia remained problematical.

Thai Officials Delay Departure

Officials in Bangkok deferred departure of Thailand's seven-man delegation, headed by Foreign Minister Thanat Kouman. Thai authorities expressed little hope that the control commission would be able to verify the cease-fire by Friday.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia, who originally proposed the 14-nation conference, announced May 1 that he was washing his hands of the Laotian question because Laos' King Savang Vathana opposed the talks.

Amid the preliminary bustle came a complaint from the Communist Pathet Lao that royal government forces were trying to wrest back territories lost before the cease-fire. It named the Chepon district of lower Laos and parts of Luang Prabang Province in the north.

A Laotian government official newly arrived in Tokyo said Laotian leaders were disappointed by U.S. policy in Southeast Asia.

This official, who asked not to be identified by name, declared in an interview, "The Laotian people have completely lost faith in the effectiveness of Western help."

"We do not understand," he said, "why the United States talks now of sending troops to South Viet Nam, which is not in immediate danger, and refuses to help Laos (with troops). I believe the thinking among Lao government leaders is in favor of immediate intervention by forces of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO)."

Guard Units Patrol Illinois Flood Area

By The Associated Press

National Guard units were ordered to active duty Wednesday in flood-stricken Southern Illinois, one of the hardest-soaked areas in a water-logged five-state section.

Twenty-five persons have died in the rampaging waters which caused millions of dollars of damage in Indiana, Kentucky, Kansas, Missouri and Southern Illinois, where the worst floods poured across the lowlands. Although waters of many rivers and creeks in the Midwest were receding, Red Cross disaster workers continued to provide food, clothing, medicine and shelter to homeless persons.

The five-state Midwest area counted 1,250 families homeless, 5 persons missing and 118 injured. Sixty-eight were in hospitals.

Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois ordered a National Guard unit to active duty at West Frankfort, another to Carmi in White County and others to Jackson and Lawrence Counties—all hard hit by the surging muddy waters of Southern Illinois rivers and streams.

In Washington, the Small Business Administration designated six counties in Illinois, two in Missouri and two in Kansas as disaster areas because of damage from tornadoes and floods.

They were: Monroe, Washington, St. Clair, Clinton, Randolph and Madison counties in Illinois; St. Louis and Platte counties in Missouri, and Wyandotte and Montgomery counties in Kansas.

As volunteers patrolled battered levees around the clock, the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers continued their rise Wednesday. Heavy rains carried topsoil into lakes and streams, and muddy waters swirled silt onto homes, farm buildings, schools and business places.

In Centralia, Ill., near the nation's population center, where residents were without drinking water Tuesday after the city's water pumps were submerged, the water supply returned to near normal pressure. Officials in some Midwest communities had feared outbreaks of typhoid fever from contaminated water. None, however, was reported.

The flood threat eased in Ohio, Kentucky, Oklahoma and Kansas. Waters subsided in Oklahoma as dry weather moved into the state.

Kennedys Plan Fla. Weekend

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Kennedy will leave Thursday for a few days' vacation at Palm Beach, Fla. They plan to fly back to Washington Sunday night.

Announcing their plans, the White House said the Kennedy children, Caroline and John F. Jr., will remain at the executive mansion.

It was understood that the President is going to Palm Beach primarily to rest. He and Mrs. Kennedy will make state visits to Canada next week and to Paris starting May 31.

This will be Kennedy's second trip to Palm Beach since his inauguration. He spent a long weekend there at Easter. Aside from that, his only vacation-type trips have been weekend jaunts to his estate at Middleburg, Va.

The Kennedy family maintains a home at Palm Beach, but it is now closed temporarily, so the President and the First Lady will stay at the residence of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Wrightsman.

Nixon Declares New Frontier 'Worn-Out Land'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Richard M. Nixon wound up his first political tour since the election Wednesday with a blast at the Kennedy administration's domestic policies.

"The shape of the New Frontier is becoming clearer and clearer," the former vice president said in a speech prepared for a Republican fund-raising rally.

"With every new program and every new proposal, slogans aside, it turns out to be pretty familiar territory after all: a return to the depressing old frontier of the late '30s and to the inevitable failures of a policy of systematic government intervention into the American economy.

"It turns out to be the old worn-out country of government controls, pump-priming, high taxes, higher deficits and economic stagnation."

As far as Nixon is concerned, he has said the words "New Frontier" for the last time.

While he was handing out texts of his speech he told reporters: "Some of my colleagues constantly deride and joke about 'New Frontiers'. This is a mistake. I'm only going to talk about old frontiers, starting today."

Nixon contends that because the election was so close, and because the House is so conservative, President Kennedy has had to tone down some of his economic programs.

"That is why the congressional elections of 1962 are so vitally important," Nixon said. Sizable Democratic gains, he said, will be followed by "increased spending, higher taxes and more federal government control in the lives of every American."

Here Nixon reverted to a theme he has been hammering away at ever since he began his tour, a week ago in Chicago.

He contends that at a time when extra money is needed for national security, Kennedy is asking for 15 billion extra, of which 11 billions are for health, education, welfare, housing and public works.

Shepard Earned $14.38 By Making Trip Into Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. made $14.38 by flying into space last Friday.

The Navy came up with the figure Wednesday after checking his pay status.

As a commander on flying duty Shepard gets an extra $230 a month but has to fly four hours a month for it. He draws regular pay as well, but no special compensation as an astronaut.

The 15-minute ride 115 miles high counts on the four hours.

Algerian Peace Parley May 20

PARIS (AP)—The French government and the Algerian rebel regime agreed Wednesday to meet at the conference table May 20 in hopes of ending 6½ years of bloody war in Algeria.

The agreement to begin talks at Evian-les-Bains is the third attempt in 11 months to settle the quarrel over the North African territory.

Talks last June broke down in the preliminary stages. A conference scheduled for April 7 in Evian-les-Bains never got started.

As news reached Algiers that another peace conference has been scheduled, Moslem information units said they are ready to demonstrate support for the Algerian rebel regime should the French try to minimize its influence.

The majority of European settlers appeared grimly reconciled to the idea of the conference. But the hard core of European extremists, who have fought President Charles de Gaulles' self-determination plan with bombs and revolts, still were attempting to arouse the population to desperate resistance.

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco will come here for a four-day official visit June 10, the government said.

Goldberg Seeks Missile Bases Strike Solution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg said Wednesday President Kennedy is determined to halt strikes which slow down construction of U.S. missile bases.

Executive action to assure full speed construction of the bases was foreseen by Goldberg after a New York conference next week with seven top labor relations experts. He also will see union leaders and contractors.

The secretary told a news conference that Kennedy has directed him to do everything possible so the nation's missile program can move forward.

Goldberg declined to pinpoint blame for the construction delays. But he said he wanted to get the cooperation of labor, management and government officials to assure uninterrupted work in the future.

His proposals were expected to call for a no-strike pledge from unions involved in constructing the bases. In addition a new agency would be created to settle union grievances.

Goldberg's proposal was designed partly to head off legislation to outlaw all strikes on defense projects. Sen. John L. McClellan D-Ark., has said he might introduce such a bill.

McClellan's Senate investigations subcommittee has heard testimony that slowdowns and walkouts had delayed the U.S. space program at Cape Canaveral and elsewhere.

However, C.J. (Neil) Haggery, president of the AFL-CIO building trades department, told the subcommittee Wednesday that organized labor was not responsible for major delays.

Haggery contended that inefficient management and frequent planning changes caused the lags. He said the AFL-CIO department does not condone "unauthorized, irresponsible and unjustified strikes."

The labor official said he wanted to discuss any peace formula with Goldberg before approving it.

Westinghouse Official Asks Probe Breather

WASHINGTON (AP) — The executive vice president of Westinghouse Electric Corp. asked senators for a breathing spell from official investigations into price fixing.

The executive, John K. Hodnette, testified Wednesday that Westinghouse would use the time free of investigation "to demonstrate to you and the public at large that we really mean business and are going to abide by the law."

At a hearing of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, Hodnette pledged Westinghouse "compliance—all the way down the line."

Westinghouse was one of 29 electrical equipment manufacturers who pleaded guilty or no contest recently to federal charges of price fixing. A U.S. district judge fined the companies and 45 executives nearly $2 million.

McNamara Shocked; Too Much Testimony Bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was shocked when Pentagon security experts released so much of his secret testimony on military matters.

McNamara said so in testimony released Wednesday by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

He appeared before the committee on April 4 and 5 at closed hearings on the Kennedy administration's $43.79-billion military budget, as revised from the one submitted by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

McNamara noted that he had appointed Lt. Gen. Joseph F. Carroll, Air Force inspector general, to devise ways of reducing the release of information that is "of benefit to our potential enemies."

At the time McNamara testified newsmen were given copies of a prepared statement he took into the hearing room. The statement first was screened by Defense Department security specialists.

The transcript just released also was considerably censored, but it showed the secretary expressing shock that so many military secrets had been left in his initial testimony for public release.

He said the security screeners left in statements about weaknesses of U. S. military forces "which, if I were a Soviet military planner, would be of great value to me."

The transcript then quoted Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., as agreeing that too many military secrets have been leaked and published.

Johnson En Route To South Viet Nam

HONOLULU (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson left Wednesday on the second leg of his special mission to Southeast Asia for urgent consultations with President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam.

The 7,500-mile flight to Saigon called for stops at Wake Island and Guam.

One of the prime purposes of Johnson's trip is to satisfy the leaders of South Viet Nam, Thailand, the Philippines and Nationalist China that the United States is determined to provide effective support where needed.

Ousted From Jail

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — Preston Calloway, 45, was forced to leave the Belmont County Jail Tuesday after staying on voluntarily since Aug. 27, 1960.

Calloway was jailed originally for non-support but was ordered released last August. However, he told the judge then that "things were better on the inside than on the outside" and asked to be allowed to remain.

The court finally ordered him to leave the jail.

Prowler Stalks Family Of Nine, Fires Into Home, Wounding Three Children

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A stocky prowler stalked a terror-stricken family of nine locked in their small home early Wednesday before firing a random shotgun blast through a window into a bed where seven frightened children lay huddled. Miraculously, only three of the children received minor wounds.

"I want your wife. Send her out or I'll kill the whole family," David Grimes quoted the prowler as shouting in the darkness.

Grimes collected the children, five of them his, and two cousins, and herded them onto one bed after the prowler's shotgun discharged, apparently accidentally, as he crawled beneath the house.

Then minutes later came the blast through the locked window, shattering a closed venetian blind. Wayne County Sheriff Jesse Hinson said the house is raised from the ground about two feet and that the angle of the shot saved the lives of the children.

The 30 minutes of terror started for the family when Grimes, a carpenter, said he heard a bang on the front door. "It sounded as if someone was trying to break it down," he said.

Grimes heard the man move to the back of the modest home. Through a crack in the door, Grimes saw the stocky, well-built man wearing a dark cap and dark leather jacket, get an ax from a nearby outbuilding and come to the back porch.

Grimes seized a 12-gauge shotgun and fired through a door panel. The man retreated.

Now the entire family was awake, tensely listening in the darkness for another sound.

Then through the silence came the terrifying sound of the man crawling beneath the house.

Without warning, the prowler's gun discharged. Grimes, believing the man was shooting at the family through the floor, herded the children onto the bed.

Then came the prowler's gruff shout: "I want your wife. Send her out or I'll kill the whole family."

The prowler, hearing the family move into the bedroom, crawled from beneath the house and moved around the house until he found the bedroom window, and fired.

"It was a shot from ambush," said Sheriff Hinson. "He apparently aimed at no one for he could not see into the room. He just aimed at the corner where he believed the bed to be."

Hinson said officers could find no clues. He said rain obliterated any treacks and hampered bloodhounds.

Military Academy To Honor Ike Monday

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — The U. S. Military Academy will honor its most distinguished living graduate — former President Dwight D. Eisenhower — next Monday for his devotion to the ideals of the West Point motto, "duty, honor, country."

Eisenhower, a member of the class of 1915, will return to West Point to receive the annual Sylvanus Thayer Award traditionally presented at the annual Founders Day Dinner.

Eichmann Portrayed As More Rabid Than Fuehrer In Exterminating Jews

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann was portrayed Wednesday as a man who surpassed Adolf Hitler in relentless pursuit of the Nazi goal to exterminate European Jews. But evidence introduced in his trial showed he met with a big failure in little Denmark.

Assistant prosecutor Gavriel Bach produced evidence that even Hitler and high-ranking army generals objected at one stage to Eichmann's single-minded hunt for Jews in Nazi-occupied Europe.

This was halfway through World War II when Eichmann advocated that Dutch half-Jews be considered full Jews for purposes of extermination.

Bach submitted documentary evidence that Hitler and the army opposed the suggestion on grounds that if carried through it eventually would mean that thousands of quarter-Jews serving in the German army would be lost to military service.

Bach said Eichmann's plan showed that "in certain points he was more extreme in his approach to the Jewish question than Hitler himself."

The story of Eichmann's failure in Denmark was told by a blond Danish Jew who came to Israel in 1946. It was in startling contrast to weeks of evidence that the Nazi campaign against Jews took its ghastly toll without resistance in country after country seized in the Nazi blitzkrieg.

Werner David Melchior, 35, a journalist and son of Copenhagen's chief rabbi, testified that the Danish people never gave up their interest in the fate of Jews deported from Denmark.

As a result of this interest, Eichmann's otherwise efficient machine was able to net only 472 of Denmark's 7,700 Jews. Of those, 50 died in concentration camp, he said.

Melchior testified that arsonists who attempted to set fire to a Jewish synagogue were jailed by Danish authorities. Authors of violently anti-Jewish articles in some German-supported Danish newspapers were heavily fined. Danish police teamed with Jews carrying clubs to protect threatened synagogues.

And, most important, Danes risked death to help Jews reach safety in neutral Sweden.

Melchior himself reached safety via this route.

U.S. Gift To Togoland

LOME, Togoland (AP) — The U.S. government has presented Togoland a gift of tractors and heavy road-building equipment worth $600,000. American Ambassador Barrows Leland said the equipment is "an expression of our continued solicitude for the economic development of Togoland."

About 72 per cent of the United States population has some form of voluntary health insurance.

New City Would Be Virginia's Second Largest

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP)—The Fairfax Board of County Supervisors approved unanimously Wednesday an agreement to consolidate the county with the tiny town of Clifton and become Virginia's second largest city.

The merger also would make the new city the second largest in the United States in point of territory.

The new city, whose name would be chosen by referendum Nov. 7, would have a population of 275,000 — 55,000 greater than Richmond. Norfolk, Virginia's largest city, has a population of 305,000.

The Clifton town council approved the move at a meeting Tuesday night. Clifton has a population of 230.

The action is designed to prevent annexation of county land by nearby towns and cities. Under Virginia law, a city cannot be annexed. Falls Church now is suing to annex 4.5 square miles of Fairfax County territory, and Alexandria has indicated it will file an annexation suit for 27 square miles of Fairfax County land.

The county supervisors adopted a resolution asking the county circuit court to set a referendum for July 11 at which residents of Clifton and the county would vote on the merger proposal. The referendum would coincide with the Virginia Democratic primary.

If the proposal is approved, the city charter would become effective, July 1, 1962.

The agreement specifies that at least these four names be included on the Nov. 7 ballot for a name for the new city—Clifton, Colchester, Fairfax and Providence. Other names could be submitted by petition.

The new city's area of 403 square miles would be second only to that of Los Angeles, the nation's largest city in point of area. Los Angeles covers 455 square miles. Houston, the second largest city in the nation in point of area, covers 353 square miles.

If the consolidation is approved, the four towns now within the county borders—Fairfax, Vienna, Herndon and Clifton—would be dissolved. However, officials of Fairfax and Vienna have said they would act to make the towns cities rather than have them swallowed up by the new community.

Johnson Given Broad Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is reported to have armed Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson with sweeping negotiating authority on his Southeast Asia trip.

Congressional associats who talked to him before he left Washington reported Johnson has been clothed with powers greater than ever given a vice president to deal with U.S. allies and with neutrals in the area.

They said Johnson not only carries specific directions from Kennedy but is authorized to use his judgment in dealing with any unanticipated questions that may arise in his discussions with the heads of allied and neutral states in the area.

Final decisions on major policy questions would be referred to Kennedy, but Johnson's informal commission was said to go considerably beyond that usually carried by roving ambassadors employed by Kennedy and presidents of the past.

Swart Elected First S. Africa President

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI)—Charles Robberts Swart, who once worked as a newspaper reporter in New York and played bit roles in Hollywood westerns and horror movies, Wednesday was elected first President of the New Republic of South Africa.

The 66-year-old Swart will assume office on May 31 when South Africa formally becomes a republic and at the same time withdraws from the British Commonwealth of Nations. Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd announced South Africa's withdrawal after his government came under heavy fire at the Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London last March because of its racial policies.

Swart was elected by the South African assembly instead of by a popular ballot in accordance with the provisions of the new constitution for the republic. The vote for him was 139 to 71.

Humble Nun Will Become Saint In Rites Today

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—A humble, hard-working nun becomes a saint Thursday in the glory of St. Peters Basilica.

The solemn canonization of Italian Sister Bertilla Boscardin, officiated by Pope John XXIII in the presence of assembled cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops and bishops, is tn church's recognition of a saintliness which, according to an official biography, was hardly rewarded on earth.

Sister Bertilla, a poor country girl who took a private vow of chastity at the age of 13 and joined the Dorothean nuns six years later, died of cancer in 1922 after a vain surgical operation.

Throughout her 34 years of life, she met with little recognition.

Mild Dispute Marks Hearing For Teacher

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A mild dispute developed at a public hearing Wednesday night for Sherman G. Brett, a high school biology teacher who lost his job at Severna Park High School.

Dr. Richard D. Weigle, president of the Anne Arundel County Board of Education, said a citizens group appearing for Brett would have one hour and 20 minutes to present its case, and the board then would present its statement of the case.

Weigle said the board would then adjourn, go into closed session and try to reach an immediate decision.

"The board has misunderstood our request," said Charles E. Hartman Jr., attorney for the Citizens Group of Upper Severna Park. Hartman said the citizens group had asked the board to "justify its position" and the board was "not granting us a hearing on the issue we are really seeking."

Brett claims he was dismissed April 17 because he went too far in explaining the reproduction systems of animals to his biology students. He resigned after being notified by the county education department that his teaching contract would not be renewed after the current academic year.

School officials have not said that the sex-in-class issue had anything to do with the termination. Shortly after Brett resigned, about 50 Severna Park High School students protested by parading around the governor's mansion in Annapolis.

About 300 persons attended the hearing in the 500-seat Annapolis High School auditorium. Predominately parents, the group also included some students.

Board members sat on the stage in the auditorium. Brett himself sat in th audience, at one side, as the hearing began.

One policeman was posted at the front door of the high school. Dr. Weigle said at the outset he would not tolerate any applause or demonstration and threatened to dismiss the hearing if there were any.

Painter Guilty In Death Of Tot

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP) — Edward Simpson Jones, 31, a house painter who lives near Berlin, was convicted of manslaughter Wednesday night in the death of his 22-month-old, mentally retarded step-daughter.

A jury returned its guilty verdict as the climax of a three-day trial after deliberating 5½ hours in Worcester County Circuit Court.

Simpson's step-daughter, Brenda Sue Caudill, died of a brain injury March 30, 1960, in a state hospital for the mentally retarded at Stockley, Del.

Winter Wheat Crop Estimate Lowered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department Wednesday forecast this years' winter wheat crop at 1,095,687,000 bushels.

This estimate is 2,703,000 bushels less than last month's forecast. Last year's crop of 1,117,131,000 bushels was the second largest on record.

California Group Establishes "University Of The Seven Seas"

By THOMA SVOSS

WHITTIER, Calif. (UPI) — A new twist is about to be added to the field of education. It's an ocean-going college campus.

Nobody knows just who came up with the idea of a floating campus, but it appealed to a group of California educators and businessmen who formed a non-profit corporation as the backbone for the University of the Seven Seas.

The board of trustees of the university includes the president of a pipe and supply company, a speech and drama professor from Whittier College, an assistant professor of education at California Western University, a lumber company president, a retired U.S. Navy rear admiral, a U.S. Agriculture Department entomologist, an associate professor of history at California Western University, a former school superintendent, and a former college president.

Within a day or two after the announcement of establishment of the university, applications from prospective students began to flow in.

Dr. E. Ray Nichols Jr., vice president of the board of trustees, presently chairman of the department of speech and drama at Whittier, College, said from 25 to 50 applications were being received every day.

According to Nichols, the university seeks to provide the most favorable means for the study of man, his resources, his environment and his outreach. He said the university felt the mobile classroom is the way to best provide that environment, and added, "Instead of bringing the world piecemeal into the laboratory, we will take the student into the world laboratory."

By September, 1962, the university plans to launch its first floating campus with 525 students and from 35 to 40 of the finest faculty members available, Nichols said.

Arrangements have already been made to turn the SS Jerusalem into the university's first mobile campus. A full-time class schedule will be maintained at sea, and while the ship is in port, field trips, seminars at local universities and other appropriate activities will be emphasized.

Dr. Nichols said the university is designed for upper division college students and for those already holding degrees from accredited colleges and universities.

"We'll offer advanced courses for credit in the liberal arts which pertain most directly to the concept of international relations," he said.

Johnson To Speak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will deliver the commencement address May 29 at Gallaudet College, President Leonard M. Elstad announced Wednesday.

The first nation to recognize the United States as a world power was France. This happened in 1778.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK
The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 11 Two mass meetings in New York city late in April were of signal importance. The first was a spontaneous, cheering gathering along both sides of Broadway when 6th, 12th and 71st Regiments, State Militia, marched down to ferries that took them across the Hudson to New Jersey. The 7th Regiment had gone ahead.

The second of these assemblages overflowed Union Square April 20, to hear and cheer Peter Cooper, John A. Dix, John J. Astor, Edward Baker and others, pleading loyalty to the Federal government, and to see Maj. Robert Anderson, the Union officer who had commanded at fallen Fort Sumter.

The size and fervency of the crowd seemingly caused the mayor, Fernando Wood, to change his tune. Earlier in 1861, Mayor Wood had proposed to Common Council that the City secede and establish an independent government . . . "In this we would have the whole and united support of the Southern States" . . . he declared. After the demonstration at Union Square, attended by an estimated 100,000 persons, Wood issued a proclamation urging people to support preservation of the Union.

Still, that month, ships loaded at New York with guns, powder, newly made uniforms, for Southern ports.

Wall Street Views

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Some Wall Street experts are suggesting that the stock market may be due for a correction after its solid advance.

The big question is whether such a reaction would come before or after the market tests its historic high.

Dow Jones financial news service reported investment analysts are finding evidence of a more cautious approach to the market by institutional buyers and managers of large portfolios.

If this is extended, according to analysts, it could lead to a new period of corrective consolidation and perhap another test of last month's lows.

"Any such move at this time would be considered technical by Wall Street," Dow Jones said. "The foreign situation, for the moment at least, is not an active concern to traders and signs of business improvement continue."

Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co. commented that if the recent display of strength fails to carry through 700 on the Dow Jones industrial average on expanded volume, accompanied by increasingly bullish news from the business front, it would place the over-all market in a vulnerable position for another correction.

That correction, said Ward, could very easily test the 660-670 area on the industrial average later this month.

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. is of the opinion that the market by now has absorbed the impact of poor first quarter earnings and that it probably is being influenced, at least to some extent, by a firming of international policy.

"It is obvious that Washington is resolved to take the calculated risks incident to regaining the initiative in the cold war," he says.

"Business is improving all along the line but the improvement is not suggestive of anything like a gathering boom."

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMICK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pity the organization man's wife!

Just about the time she works up to vice-presidency of the Stich-A-Bit Club, along comes hubby with the news that he's being transferred.

Now the notion that the organization man's wife sometimes should be pitied comes from Dr. Robert J. Agnew — a droll, deadpan associate professor of industry in the University of Pittsburgh's Graduate School of Business.

During a recent lecture-in-jest to 36 industrial leaders and their wives, the professor told the females about problems to expect as their mates head for the executive suite.

"The first item on the list of duties is that you run the house yourself," he said. "Hit him at the wrong time in the office and a phone call about a leaking faucet can be the kiss of death."

Agnew claims also that the high degree of mobility in the organizational world is much harder on the wife than it is on the husband.

"After all," he said, "husband's job is about the same whether he's in New York City of Boise, Idaho.

"But honeybunch has got to start from scratch, and it isn't easy to find a bridge partner who understands her bid system.

"And its the wife who has to squeeze eight rooms of furniture into a six-room-house — and smile while she's doing it. If she doesn't grin, hubby's going to feel like a heel."

Agnew said the wife's most important role is to encourage her mate in his wanderings through the organization maze.

"You've got to encourage his long business trips and his long hours," he said.

But that's not all. A loyal and true corporation wife also must be dependable.

Say, for example, she forgets to slip the roast into the oven in time when hubby ushers an associate home for dinner.

Agnew claims this is almost as bad as calling hubby at the office about a flooded basement.

"Hubby's going to lose a contract, most of his martini supply and a large portion of his good humor," the management expert said.

About the worst thing a corporation wife can be is a pandora.

"Your husband is bound to tell you how Joe Blow lost a $32,000 account," Agnew said, "but don't you dash off to the PTA and open the lid. You'll be tempted, but remember what happened to Eve."

The professor said that the organization husbands frequently get so involved in work that they refuse to take vacations or relax.

"The corporation wife," he said, "has got to apply pressure. Tell him to take a day off or you'll go home to mother.

"And if he tells you to go ahead, you'll understand just how difficult the wife's role is."

P. S. Agnew's lecture-in-jest claimaxed an intensive eight-week course in management problems for executives.

Prints Greene Work

VIENNA (UPI)—The Budapest newspaper Magyar Nemzet carried the first instalment Wednesday of the first work by a Western author to appear in a Hungarian Communist daily. It was Graham Green's "Our Man In Havana," which makes fun of Western diplomacy and espionage in pre-Castro Cuba.

Challe Said To Veto A-Bomb Blackmail

ROME (UPI) — A Rome newspaper said Tuesday that a leader of the Algiers military revolt had planned to blackmail the French government with the threat of atom-bombing Paris.

The newspaper Momento Sera said insurgent leader Gen. Maurice Challe thwarted the plan by ordering the experimental atom bomb destroyed rather than let it fall into the hands of his own extremist followers.

"He knew that he was dooming the revolt to failure and perhaps himself to death," Momento Sera said.

" . . . but he certainly saved Paris."

The newspaper said its report was based on a first-hand account by an Italian who served in the French Foreign Legion and was close to Col. Paul Godard, the alleged author of the atom blackmail plan.

High Court Upholds Ruling, Upsets Other

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Court of Appeals Wednesday affirmed a Carroll County Circuit Court ruling denying George Green $51,500 in damages for personal injury and property damage in an auto accident.

At the same time, the high court reversed the trial court's decision awarding Samuel L. Warner, owner of the vehicle with which Green collided, $1,000 for damages to his vehicle.

Green collided with a tractor-trailer rig driven by Charles L. Zile as it was turning onto a favored highway from an unfavored highway.

The court said Zile's "failure to yield the right of way constituted contributory negligence on his part as a matter of law, which barred his employer's right to recover against the appellant (Green), the defendant in the counter suit."

Tawes Hails Nursing Home Program

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes said Wednesday nursing home legislation enacted by the recent General Assembly marks another step forward for Maryland in a steady advance of medical and health services.

The legislation, to encourage private homes, will ease overcrowding in state and private hospitals, he said.

Tawes addressed the Advertising Club of Baltimore in connection with the observance of National Hospital Week.

For nearly a hundred years, he said, Maryland "has enjoyed a national and an international reputation for the outstanding quality of its medicine and its medical institutions."

"This has come about, to a great degree, through a unique and enlightened partnership between the state, the medical profession, voluntary hospitals and community leadership," he said.

The governor noted Maryland was the first state to have a public health officer in every one of its counties.

He predicted the state, in partnership with the medical profession and volunteer hospitals, also will find "a middle-of-the-road solution" growing financial problems of volunteer hospitals without state or federal intervention.

Tawes said the new nursing home program approved by the legislature should benefit volunteer hospitals as well as the state's chronic disease and other public hospitals where patients still require nursing care but not necessarily hospitalization.

He noted that most nursing homes in Maryland are operated for profit and consequently are located in areas of highest income. Areas of low income are in short supply of facilities.

The new law will provide state funds to match federal funds in providing two-thirds of the cost of building and equipping nursing homes to be operated by non-profit corporations and public bodies.

"Highest priorities will be given to areas of low income and of the highest unmet need for nursing homes," Tawes said.

Shotgun Pellets Found In Man's Burned Body

PORT DEPOSIT, Md. (AP) — State Police said Wednesday they are investigating the possibility of murder in the death of a man whose body was found in the smoldering ruins of a burned-out sawmill.

Dr. Russell S.Fisher, chief medical examiner for Maryland, said an autopsy revealed shotgun pellets in the body.

The victim has been tantively identified as James Caldwell, 40, of Colora, four miles north of this Cecil County town. Caldwell was an employe at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

The body, burned almost beyond identification, was discovered after fire leveled an abandoned sawmill Sunday.

A 16-gauge shotgun was found near the body in the basement of the five-story mill. A similar shotgun was reported missing from the Caldwell home, police said.

Mrs. Caldwell reported her husband missing Sunday. She said he drove her and their 17-year-old daughter to Havre de Grace Saturday to visit her mother. When she returned home Sunday night he was missing, she said.

Ransom Claim By Frederick Again Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another try to have Frederick, Md. reimbursed for a Civil War ransom payment of $200,000 appears dead for this session.

A House Judiciary subcommittee refused to approve a bill offered by Rep. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., after a hearing Wednesday.

An aide of Mathias said the rejection by the subcommittee means the bill is dead for this session.

Mathias told the subcommittee paying the ransom to Confederate forces in 1864 was of great benefit to the government.

"Failure to pay this ransom would have resulted in the destruction and sacking of Frederick, Md., and the loss of property and supplies which rightfully belonged to the federal government," he said

Subcommittee Chairman Thomas J. Lane, D-Mass., said after the meeting the group felt the bill might establish a precedent and encourage other similar claims.

Mathias said he was aware that many House members were apprehensive that approval of such a measure, especially during the Civil War Centennial, would encourage others to make claims against the government.

Frederick paid the $200,000 to Confederate forces under Lt. Gen. Jubal Early as the price to prevent destruction of Frederick and Union stores there.

Mathias testified that Frederick finally paid up the bonds in 1951, but that by 1914 the city had paid in interest twice the amount of the ransom.

Missing Man's Papers Found

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore police said Wednesday they had located papers belonging to a bodyguard believed to have been kidnaped after a sidewalk shooting spree Tuesday.

The papers, including the missing man's driver's license, were found at the rear of an East Baltimore home. The owner of the property did not report the find to police immediately because he did not realize their significance, he said.

The bodyguard, 38-year-old Earl Fifer, had accompanied his employer, Edward Corbi, to Corbi's house the night of the shooting. Corbi, a Baltimore restaurant operator, said he had been worried that he was being followed.

According to Corbi's account, when the two men reached his home several gunmen ordered them to stand still. Corbi ran for shelter and the gunmen began firing. A witness said he saw four men leave the scene in a station wagon.

Fisherman Is Rescued

By The Associated Press

A 55-year-old Baltimore taxi driver was rescued Wednesday by an Army helicopter after being marooned overnight on Carroll Island in the Gunpowder River near Baltimore.

Authorities earlier believed that the heavy rainstorm which hit the eastern part of Maryland Tuesday night might have taken his life.

Hubert A. Peed was marooned on the island, a part of the Edgewood Army Chemical Center range area, when his borrowed motor boat failed to start.

His routine fishing trip became an emergency when the 18-foot boat began to drag its anchor in the high winds and rain Tuesday night.

"I didn't know there was any place in Maryland that was so isolated," said Peed of the island, after being picked up by the helicopter piloted by Capt. Billy Estes of the chemical center.

Peed was reported in good condition.

FCC Head Blasts TV Programming

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) said Tuesday that television programming is a "vast wasteland," and must be improved.

FCC chairman Newton N. Minow warned the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB) that TV will have to improve if it is to stay on the air. He said television failed to meet the standards of newspapers and magazines, and was a slave to program ratings.

Leonard H. Goldenson, president of the American Broadcasting Co., called Minow's speech "very courageous."

Minow's speech before the NAB convention was his first policy statement since taking office two months ago. The 35-year-old chairman chose biting language to tell the broadcasters what he thought of television.

"When television is good . . . nothing is better, but when television is bad, nothing is worse," he said.

"I invite you to sit down in front of your television set when your station goes on the air and stay there. . .until the station signs off. I can assure you that will observe a vast wasteland.

"You will see a procession of game shows, violence, audience participation, formula comedies about totally unbelievable families, blood and thunder, mayhem, violence, sadism, murder, western bad men, western good men, private eyes, gangsters, more violence, and cartoons.

"And endlessly, commercials — many screaming, cajoling, and offending. And most of all boredom. True, you will see a few things you will enjoy. But they will be very, very few. And if you think I exaggerate, try it."

Minow said broadcasters are trustees of the public air waves. He put them on notice that hereafter broadcast licenses will not be renewed "pro forma."

"I did not come to Washington to idly observe the squandering of the public's air waves," he said.

He declared himself opposed to government censorship of TV or radio programming, but said he would use the full powers of his office to improve broadcasting.

Two Creeks Will Be Stocked Today

The State Game and Inland Fish Commission will stock both Evitts and Flintstone creeks today between 10 and 11 a. m. with the final allotment of trout.

Many local fishermen will also attend an event at Hunting Creek in Frederick County when trout anglers from all over the state will convene. Hunting Creek is usually stocked for the event with brook, brown and rainbow trout.

Psychiatrist Jokes Scarce At Convention

CHICAGO (AP) — There must be a thousand well-couched jokes about psychiatrists.

But try to find one at the annual convention of the American Psychiatric Association.

Of 46 delegates asked Tuesday to tell their favorite joke about their profession, only three responded. The others had these answers:

15 — "My mind is a complete blank."

9 — "I know a lot, but they are unprintable."

6 — "Psychiatrists don't tell jokes about themselves; they are made up by outsiders and aren't very funny anyway."

4 — "You came to the wrong man — I never could remember a joke."

4 — "Take in some of these cocktail parties and you'll hear plenty."

3 — "I haven't got time for jokes; I've got to find my wife."

1 — "I hear e'm, but I force myself to forget them."

1 — "Im' disgusted with the jokes I hear. They are by people who discharge hostilities through humor, based on fear that we know more about them than they do themselves."

The three who were unabashed told these favorites:

Dr. Floyd Westendof, Minneapolis — "A neurotic dreams of living in a mansion. A psychotic thinks he lives in a mansion. A psychiatrist collects rent from both of them."

Dr. Charles E. White, Independence, Iowa — "A psychiatrist wanted to draw a conclusion on alcohol. He drank whisky and water and got drunk. He tried brandy and water and got drunk. He took rum and water and got drunk. He concluded that water was intoxicating."

Dr. James E. Johnson Jr., Galveston, Tex. — "A delegate wearing his yellow badge passed another delegate on the street. He said 'Good morning.' The other delegate walked by without a word. Stopping a half a block away, he scratched his head and said: 'I wonder what he meant by that?' "

Maybe it's just as well most of them didn't have any.

Nazi Swastika Silver Turns Up In W. Berlin

By JOSEPH FLEMING

BERLIN (UPI) — Swastika silverware has set West Berlin to checking its cupboards and its conscience in another tussle with its Nazi past.

The cupboards were less than 100 per cent clean, but the city could give itself an "A" for effort so far as attempts to make up for the past were concerned.

The swastika silverware came to light in the city-run Behring Hospital. It was discovered when a Jewish woman patient had a heart attack when at mealtime she was given a knife and fork decorated with the Nazi emblems.

A check disclosed that of the Behring Hospital's 5,500 sets of silver, 62 still were decorated with swastikas. It turned out they had been left over from the time the hospital had been a German army hospital.

The matter was discussed at length in the city assembly and the hospital's administrative director was suspended.

Joachim Lipschitz, head of the City Interior Department, said there was no more room for swastikas on silverware than there was for Nazis in the city.

Germans, or at least Berliners, have been examining their cupboards and consciences now for more than 15 years.

Sixteen years after the end of the war, there is no extreme nationalist organization to speak of.

But 16 years after the end of World War I, Hitler already was in power.

"What has become of the Nazis?" visitors often ask. The answer is that the Nazis — or rather the ex-Nazis — are all around.

But western allied officials and German officials say the main point is that no neo-Nazi movement exists and will not be tolerated if it arises.

They say former Nazis now are voting for the Socialists and Christian Democrats and other democratic parties and will probably continue to do so.

Growden Trial Set For Friday

Homer Growden, Centerville, Pa., will be tried Friday 10 a. m. in Allegany County Circuit Court on two separate charges of false pretense.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris will preside and James S. Getty, state's attorney, will present the state's case. Growden will be represented by Attorney Earl E. Manges.

Growden was apprehended two weeks ago in nearby Bedford, Pa., on a warrant obtained by Maryland authorities.

He is charged with obtaining $1,000 worth of building materials from the Marshall Lumber Company of Lonaconing and $395 worth of building materials from the Hiser Supply Company on the McMullen Highway.

Growden was arrested in connection with the cases more than a year ago. While being questioned at the State's Attorney's Office the Pennsylvanian walked out and remained missing until his arrest two weeks ago in Bedford.

Man Being Held In Oakland Jail

A 23-year-old Big Spring, Md., man is being held in Garrett County Jail, Oakland, under bond on a carnal knowledge charge.

W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney, said the man, Robert Lee Monninger, was given a preliminary hearing on the charge Tuesday. The state prayed a jury trial and the man was ordered held under $1,000 cash bond or $2,000 property bond for the September term of Circuit Court.

The man was apprehended by Cpl. Robert Henline, Tfc. Glen Folk and Tfc. Milton Hart after the case was reported to State Police last Friday.

Man Given Two Years In Local Burglary

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday sentenced Earl Nixon, 23, Gay Street, to a term not to exceed two years in the Maryland Reformatory for Males on a charge of burglary of the Maryland Theater last month.

Judge Harris stated the sentence starts today and he did not allow for the time Nixon has been in the county jail. Two other youths in the same case were tried previously and were given two-year terms in the Reformatory.

Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, outlined the incident to the court. He said the youths had gone into an areaway behind the theater and after waiting until the last show was out about midnight, Sunday, April 1, they used a ladder to gain entrance through a window.

The manager's office was ransacked after a hole was torn in the wall to unlock a door. The youths were unable to open a safe and then broke open a number of vending machines. They took $99.33 in coins.

City police answering a call saw the youths at the corner of Baltimore and North Mechanic streets. The youths ran and this suspicious action led the police to give chase. The youths threw a sack containing the money down one of the flood control walls of the river along the Western Maryland tracks. Most of it was later recovered.

The court-appointed attorney, George R. Hughes Jr., asked the judge to be lenient stating that Nixon had been out of work but had a job awaiting him. The attorney also said the young man's family was in a "precarious economic" condition due to illness and lack of steady income.

Nixon has a past record of law violations dating back to the time he was a juvenile.

Kauffman Honored By LaVale Group

Harry Kauffman, local attorney and merchant, was honored at a dinner meeting at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club Tuesday for his efforts on behalf of the LaVale Sanitary Commission since its formation in 1947.

Kauffman served as chairman of the commission since 1959 and he did not seek reappointment to the agency. He had been a commission member since 1947 and assisted in the legal work drawing up legislation for the unit. He also was active in the organization of the LaVale Zoning Board.

Succeeding Kauffman as chairman of the commission is Chester A. Fisher, a member of the group since 1951. Fisher is tax accountant for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

The "Dutch treat" dinner was featured by the presentation of a gift to Kauffman by the LaVale group and also copies of the resolutions lauding him which were adopted by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and the LaVale Sanitary Commission.

Permit Referred

A permit for the construction of a garage in a Residential B area has been referred to the Zoning Board of Appeals by the city engineer's office.

The application was made by Charles McDonald, who earlier this month began operating an independent ambulance service here.

Neff Resigns As Director Of CIDC

The resignation of Leonard C. Neff Jr. as director of the Cumberland Industrial Development Corporation has been announced by Garland L. Johnston, president.

Neff will leave here on June 1 to become director of the Community Development Division of the Kentucky State Department of Economic Development, Johnston said, pointing out that Neff had been associated with the same division as assistant director prior to coming to Cumberland on March 15, 1960.

Announcement of the resignation was made at a CIDC board meeting last night, Johnston stating that the resignation was accepted with regret. Mr. Neff said he has enjoyed his stay in Cumberland and was leaving only because he felt the new post in Kentucky was too great a challenge to turn down.

A graduate of the University of Kentucky, from which he received a degree in business administration, Neff also has worked for the Reynolds Metal Company in Louisville, Ky., and Chrysler Airtemp at Dayton, Ohio. He also had served as assistant director of the Industrial Development Division of the Kentucky DEC.

Neff is a Navy veteran of World War II, being stationed in South Pacific during his tour of duty.

In his new position, he will be located at Frankfurt.

Johnston said there are no immediate plans for selecting a successor to Neff. The CIDC was organized as an independent agency to work out plans for attracting industry to the Cumberland area.

Open House Set By Reserve Unit

The U. S. Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, McKaig's Hill, will have "open house" Saturday, May 20, in observance of Armed Forces Day, according to Lt. Michael J. Gallo, commanding officer.

Lt. Gallo said that the training center will be open for public visitations that day from 8 a. m. until 4:30 p. m.

He added that visitors will be shown a display of small arms and taken on a guided tour of the station.

A Marine Corps drill team will be on hand to give demonstrations, he said.

He stated that persons visiting the center will be shown all operational procedures, and various pieces of equipment will be explained to them.

The training center is the location used by Marine Corps and Naval Reserve personnel for their regular drill sessions.

Lt. Gallo took over command of the center several months ago. He replaced LCDR Rich- [illegible] derwood, who held command for three years.

Ex-Janitor At College Now Teaches Languages

By MARY LU McDONALD

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — A professor without proof of a degree and who last year was a janitor today is teaching 15 hours of Russian and German at Gonzaga University in Spokane.

The jump from the Catholic school hallways he cleaned to the classrooms where he now teaches was not one, however, for which 56-year-old Valentin Herzog was unprepared.

More than 20 years ago, Herzog was superintendent of an 84-school district which employed 320 teachers in the Ukraine, U.S.S.R. He resigned in 1940, he says, "because of the difficulties of being a German in Communist Russia."

At least two generations of his family had lived by the Black Sea and Herzog had attended the Institute for Teachers, had married and was the father of four children when the war years came along to tear up his life.

Nazi Germans herded a 34-mile-long line of Germans, including the Herzogs, out of Russia in 1943. He remembers vividly the weary two-month trip during which his wife gave birth to their fifth child, a boy.

"They finally let her rest for two days before we had to start out again . . . we were all so tired and had no idea where we were going," Herzog recalled.

Drafted Into Army

The Herzog family was settled in Poland, but Valentin was drafted into the German army. When the Russians came into Poland, his wife, fearful she and the children might be sent back to Russia, fled and with the aid of the Germans went to Berlin.

But Mrs. Herzog, again fearful of capture, destroyed all family papers and records. With the aid of an understanding neighbor, the woman managed to get Polish citizenship papers.

"And that's what happened to my degree," Herzog said, "although at the time I knew nothing about it. . . I had no idea what had happened to my family."

Herzog was taken as a prisoner of war and sent to an American camp, where he stayed from April 1945, until May, 1946, when he and other Germans born in Russia were taken to Austria.

"I traded 200 German cigarettes and several shillings to get papers as a Czechoslovakian," Herzog said, "so I could get out of Austria without being returned to Russia."

Then the long hunt started for his wife. He finally located her—behind the Iron Curtain in East Berlin. After eight months' efforts Mrs. Herzog and the children slipped into the American Zone in West Germany, leaving their belongings behind.

Filed First Application

And in 1948, the Herzogs filed their first of many applications for visas to come to the United States.

Herzog said, "Our children were growing up and there was no work there for my boys. Somewhere in my past I remembered my father talking about relatives in Kansas."

A letter in the Dickinsen, N.D., Herald from Herzog's relatives in Germany culminated with an exchange of letters between Herzog and a cousin in Missouri, who urged the family to come to the Midwest.

"Finally, after four long, long years of waiting, one visa came through," Herzog recalled. "Should I go or shouldn't I? It was quite a decision, but I was told if I was in America, my family could come over fast, so I decided to go."

But luck was with the family again. Five days before Herzog was to sail, the rest of the visas came through, and the family finally arrived in the Midwest and settled in Hays, Kan.

Except for a brief period as church organist, Herzog worked as a janitor in Hays. When a daughter moved to Spokane, Wash., in 1958 to stay with relatives, Mrs. Herzog worried about her so much, Herzog said, that "it was easier to move out to Washington than stay. My wife bothered and bothered . . . you know how mothers are."

Herzog got a job as janitor at Gonzaga University in Spokane. One day a priest learned he spoke fluent Russian and suggested he might like to do parttime teaching.

"I told him I wasn't sure about my English—if it was good enough to explain things," Herzog said. "But the classes worked out fine and my citizenship course helped a lot, too."

Lindsay, 829 Braddock Road, was granted a permit for a $20,000 brick dwelling he plans to construct on Helman Drive in Election District 29, LaVale. It will be 105 by 32 feet in size.

19 Tshombe Aides Accused Of Treason

LEOPOLDVILLE, THE CONGO (UPI) — The central Congoles government of President Joseph Kasavubu Wednesday filed treason charges against all 19 military and diplomatic aides taken into custody with Katanga Province President Mois Tshombe.

The charges wre mad in writs similar to the one issued Tuesday, listing eight counts of treason against Tshombe. The aides, including Katanga Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba and six army officers, have been held with Tshombe at Coqullnatville for the past two weks.

Tshombe and his advisers were taken into custody by Congolese troops when he tried to fly home to Elisabethville after walking out of the Congolese political "summit" meeting.

Farmers Urged To Check For Alfalfa Weevil

Alfalfa weevil has been detected in Allegany County, according to Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, who offers some spraying advice for farmers.

In recent days he has conferred with farmers of the county and learned that the alfalfa weevil is prevalent in the fields.

What to do about it? Spray alfalfa when damage by larvae begins to show in the tops of most of the plants.

This should be about May 15 in the western counties of Maryland, according to Mr. Steger, who said if damage shows a second time cut the crop or spray again.

Spray each acre with one pound of actual malathion 1½ pints of five pounds./gallon liquid or one pint of eight pounds./gallon liquid) or with 1½ pounds actual methoxychlor (three quarts 25 per cent liquid.) Dilute with 25 gallons of water per acre. Do not use malathion or methoxychlor less than seven days before cutting.

Farmers are being urged to "check and look after the weevil" said Mr. Steger. Some farmers spray too early and other wait until the damage is done.

Can We Count On Latin Help?

While Washington continues to count upon Latin American help to contain Castro's Communist regime in Cuba, surveys suggest that many or most of the Latin governments are afraid to move in fear of Castro sympathy in their own lands.

Mexico adheres to a non-intervention (neutral) line. Brazil is sharply divided on Castro and the government is having a hard time making up its mind. Communist and pro-Castro forces are growing in Bolivia. Uruguay is split into three groups, which confuses government policy.

A strong pro-Castro feeling in Haiti has affected the government. The Colombian government is keeping quiet.

But Venezuela, despite radical strength in that country, has made its anti-Castro stand clear. Peru would support action to destroy the Red beachhead in the Western Hemisphere. The governments of Panama, El Salvador and Nicaragua are all anti-Castro. While the Argentine situation is not clear, President Frondizi has joined President Quadros of Brazil in condemning intervention by non-Americans and upholding the self-determination of all peoples.

In the absence of any clear-cut Latin sentiment, the U. S. can only attack the problem as circumstances justify. Washington would be courting disaster to wait upon a teetering Latin America for a supporting decision.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Answer Is No

I don't know whether you like to fill in a lot of questionnaires, but I am what is characterized by the United States Treasury as a self-employed person. Whenever I have to employ someone I find that I am often asked to pay not for ability but for time which is worthless. I recall an ancient ditty, sung perhaps by the Negro Bert Williams in my childhood, which contained the lines:

If time was money
I'd be a millionaire
I've got time, honey
And lots of it to spare.

The trouble with most folks these days is that they have too much time and want to be paid for it. In fact, some people want to be paid for being alive which is no fault of mine and when I have to pay taxes to keep them going, I feel like a philanthropist, except I can't afford it.

What the self-employed businessman suffers from most is questionnaires, forms and all sorts of papers he has to make out to keep the bureaucracy going. The bureaucrats dislike the self-employed small businessman and load him down with all kinds of bookkeeping and paper work which has no value and could be done once a year or maybe once in a life-time. For the bureaucrats it is easier to deal with a big corporation which can afford to hire a mass of clerks and a battery and computers to do all the work required to keep the bureaucrats at work.

A friend of mine sent me a copy of a letter which he had sent to the New York Telephone Company. Apparently the FCC wants to make a survey of telephone services. Of course, they can get all the information they want from the Telephone Company. All they need to do is to look at the various contracts for services. But that is too easy. What fun would there be in being an inspector if nobody was bothered?

But my friend is a tough guy. He had once been a fighter; has an excellent war record; is still an excellent wrestler and he hates bureaucrats. So, he declined to be pleasant to a survey team.

He did not throw the team out of the window or submit them to judo or fence with them. He merely told them to go to the Devil which is a good place for survey teams to go. He wrote a letter to the Telephone Company which contains these two paragraphs:

"If, as explained to me by the survey team which came during a very busy office hour period, they picked this office by lot or chance, then there are hundreds of thousands of other offices available to study. I would suggest, however, that by arrangement, the surveys or inventories be done at night or on holidays so as not to cost the subscriber valuable time.

"I belong to the vast majority of small businessmen who desire to be left alone in accordance with the free enterprise system and do not want controls, inspections, surveys, inventories or studies, perhaps at my expense (through taxes) by the federal or state government."

Oh! Dear me! Why not live and let live? The bureaucrats need something to do, particularly the FCC which fears to do its principal business which is to supervise radio and television. If they monkey too much with that, how will they get jobs after they leave low-paid government service? We should be fair and let them occupy themselves counting telephones discovering why it is impossible even to see the Astronaut do America proud without constantly being interrupted by some dames singing dull and tiresome jingles which we have heard time and time again. The FCC does not care about this.

Bureaucracy can become a disease because these people need something to do. It is like cutting out paper dolls or building houses out of tooth-picks. Maybe it is cheaper at that, because if we fire bureaucrats, we increase unemployment and taxes will be higher. If the bureaucrats would twiddle their thumbs, they could do no greater harm than they would if they were unemployed. Perhaps they cost less that way.

Perhaps the FCC will one day count television sets and radios. Perhaps they will want to know how many transistor sets are available and how many come from Japan.

Communist Crime In The Chinese Countryside

By Joseph Alsop

HONG KONG

At fifty-two years of age, Huang En-hsu is a fair embodiment of the remarkable qualities of the Chinese peasant masses. His face is weatherworn but often lighted by a humorous grin; his body is workworn but tough and wiry; his hands, almost as hard as shoe soles, tell his life story of unremitting toil for small rewards.

In all his more than a half century of life, Huang En-Hsu had never got very far from his native village until a few weeks ago. Then a fellow villager, a fisherman by trade, came to him secretly at the end of the day's work to say he was sailing for Hong Kong that night. Only one place was still vacant in the frail fishing sampan. So Huang En-Hsu abandoned his wife, his children, and his native place and fled with other friends of the fisherman to this city of the refugees.

What could drive a mature, courageous man to leave behind everything in the world he had known and loved, on no more than an instant's notice, and with no bright future awaiting him in Hong Kong either? The answer to this question lies in Huang's story of what has been happening to his village, which is called Huo Hsuen Hsiang.

In the old days, he says proudly, it was a prosperous coastal village, with salt pans and fishing boats to supplement the produce of the land. Some 1700 people lived there then, but there are less than 1500 now. On being asked what had caused the village population to shrink by more than 10 per cent, Huang answered with a shrug:

"Many have died and some have run away."

Stolidly, Huang explains that "many must die" when all are condemned to living, for years on end, as the people of his village have been living. "Last year it was bad," he says; "this year it is worse." Last year, it seems, a working farmer's ration was fourteen ounces of bad rice per day—less than a pound of starch for twelve hours of work, seven days a week. This year, the work is no lighter, and the ration is down to twelve ounces of rice, or a few bowls of sweet potato mush when there is no rice.

With the rice, nothing else is provided—not an ounce of oil or meat or fish per month. "But the heavy workers did get a special issue of three ounces of meat on New Year's Day," adds Huang with a delighted grin of recollection.

But what about the private plots the Communist government recently allowed the peasants to till, Huang is asked. He gives a snort of disgust and does a curious pantomime of a Communist official grandiloquently pointing to a steep hillside and offering the people this wasteland for their very own. As in every other Chinese village, every inch of tillable land had long since been tilled already. None of this good land was released to the peasants. So the "private plots" meant tiny pockets of earth laboriously scraped out of the wastelands, where one might grow a pumpkin or two or three or four heads of cabbage.

"It was hardly worth it," Huang adds bitterly, "for you could not guard your plot all night; and if it was not guarded, thieves were sure to come."

Then he added somberly that he did not blame his neighbors who stole in this fashion, since so many of the people were falling ill from want of nourishment. How many, he is asked. He answers that at least one in four of the able-bodied men in the village now have swollen ankles — the first symptom of the onset of the harsh deficiency disease, beri beri. His own ankles had swollen long before he fled.

"There is no treatment," he continues. "How can there be any treatment when the government has already taken all the food the village produces? The cadres make us carry the harvest to the storehouses. The government trucks come to take it away; and after that even the cadres cannot get it back. So the cadres drive all those to work who are still able to work, and those who are too weak to work are left to die."

At the end of this charming account, Huang is asked how he lives in Hong Kong and whether he is better off here. The latter question is answered by a great guffaw of laughter. He lives as a casual laborer, earning the equivalent of 35 American cents a day. But with 35 cents a day, you can get two good big meals in the Hong Kong cookshops. So of course he is ten times better off.

The point about this story of Huang's is that it is humdrum, average, utterly unsensational. Sensational horrors have indeed begun to be reported by occasional refugees from Communist China. There have been tales of cannibalism. There was even the tale, told by an obviously well balanced trained nurse from North China, of the hospital where it was discovered that afterbirths from the maternity ward had been cooked and eaten.

But Huang's story has been chosen from a great many collected by this reporter and from many scores collected by other competent reporters, precisely because it is a representative story. Conditions in his village—the unending round of enforced work; the daily ration of much less than a pound of starch with little or no supplement; the prevalence of beri beri; and all the rest—are the same conditions described, with monotonous regularity, by all the recent peasant refugees who have been questioned. The condition of Huang's village is in fact the present condition of rural China.

In fact the magnitude of the crime in the Chinese countryside is now beyond dispute. Its meaning, which is more arguable, will be examined in the next report.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NO CLAMOR—During the political campaign and immediately after the elections, there was a lot of speculation about when and under what conditions there would be a "summit" conference among the East-West leaders.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was pushing for such a meeting; President Kennedy was trying to delay it and to specify conditions under which it should be held. British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was for such a meeting, and French Chief of State Charles de Gaulle was opposed.

Since the emergence of the Laos crisis, this summit talk has died down completely, on all sides. Not even Khrushchev hints about it, and it has been dropped completely by the Soviet press and propaganda outlets.

High State Department officials are at a loss to explain this Communist shift. They know very well that Kennedy will not attend such a meeting because he insists that something concrete should come out of it. But this does not explain the change in Soviet attitude.

Best speculation in Washington is that the Soviets realize a meeting is impossible at this time, pending a settlement in Laos, and therefore have decided not to push for it and make it appear that Khrushchev is being snubbed by the West.

Overweight Children Are Generally Inactive

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The overweight child often eats less than the youngster of normal weight. Tubby is fat because he is sluggish and prefers to take life easy. A comparable situation exists among obese adults; they are less active than their non-obese counterparts.

Dr. E. T. Wilkes reported on his experiences with the Chubby club, a group of 300 obese girls between 10 and 14 years of age. Forty per cent of their mothers and 12 per cent of their fathers also were heavy. Inactivity and bad food habits were the most likely causes. The youngsters were not pleased with their excess weight yet only 16 per cent lost when given a diet.

Dr. Anna-Marie Chirico and Dr. Albert J. Stunkard of Philadelphia tested the physical activity of a group of men and women with a mechanical pedometer. Stout women walked an average of 2 miles a day, whereas thinner gals averaged 4.9 miles. Comparable figures among men were 3.7 and 6 miles per day.

These physicians also investigated the personalities and attitudes of the two weight groups. Obese women were more passive in their emotional make-up and were not easily disturbed by situations of stress or boredom. This was not true of the overweight male; he reacted to stress in much the same way as his thinner companion.

But lack of exertion and disturbed emotions are not the most important reasons why adults become corpulent. Eating too much is the basic fault. The individual consumes more calories than the body needs and the excess is stored as fat. These chubbies get into the habit of eating too much and therein lies the difficulty in dieting to lose weight.

TOMORROW: The hypertensive personality.

POOR DRAINAGE

D. W. writes: There is something wrong with my nasal plumbing. The nose drains only on one side during the day. When I go to bed and turn on my right side, it drains on that side and vice versa. What can you suggest?

REPLY

Don't call a plumber. The nose and throat should be examined thoroughly to determine where the mucus is coming from.

COUGH AND CHOCOLATE

A. L. P. writes: Periodically our 10 year old son develops a tickling cough that lasts three or four days. He has no other cold symptoms. These spells seem to follow the eating of chocolate. Do you think he could be allergic to chocolate?

REPLY

This is a possibility but a cold is a more likely origin if the tickling recurs periodically.

PERFORATED DRUM

A. C. M. writes: Some months ago I had a cold and ruptured the right eardrum. Hearing has returned on that side but the bubbling sounds continuue. Will these noises go away in time?

REPLY

Yes, but I hope you are under the care of a physician because an untreated ear infection ultimately will impair hearing.

NEWBORN'S THATCH

B. O. writes: Why are today's babies born with so much hair? When I was young (½ century ago) most newborns had very little hair.

REPLY

I didn't think they were. But if it's true, I suspect the barbers union had something to do with it.

HICCUPING BABY

R. L. writes: My infant hiccups after every feeding. It doesn't seem to bother him but it worries me. Can you explain this hicking?

REPLY

Most infants are addicted to hiccups after feeding. It may be that a full tummy presses up underneath the diaphragm and the hics may relieve him by bringing up swallowed air. So long as it doesn't bother him, don't let it bother you.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

The most disgusted author in Chicago is the man who heard via the grapevine that his latest floperoo (a novel that in seven months had sold a grand total of 977 copies) had been reported "out of stock" by the publisher. A long-distance call verified the news: the publisher had indeed sold the entire remaining stock of the book — over 3000 copies—to a single customer! The buyer: a fruit grower in South America, who proposed using the books to bullet-proof his trucks against bandits! The publisher had sold him the books for 6 cents a copy net—and admitted he had done better than he had expected!

Queen Victoria was riding in the royal coach through the streets of London when a loyal subject burst through the cordon of police and hollered, "Keep up the good work, Vic, ol' girl!" The miscreant was hustled off, and the Queen was heard to grumble, "That should never have been allowed to happen — but it was gratifying, quite gratifying!"

Secretary Udall's Blooper Recalls Tempestuous Days Of Harold Ickes

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — When a friend of the Secretary of the Interior was found writing letters to oil executives to raise money for President Kennedy's birthday dinner, this town shook with consternation. Secretary Udall covered his head with sackcloth and ashes. President Kennedy acted as if someone had been caught taking a vicuna coat. And part of the press gyrated as if Udall had been caught with his hand in the gold vault at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

There was once another Secretary of the Interior, the man who served longest in history, named Harold Ickes, also in charge of the Public Works Administration, who was severely criticized because an aide wrote several thousand letters asking PWA personnel to buy copies of Ickes' book, "The Old Curmudgeon." Ickes did not run for cover.

Ickes was also War Petroleum Administrator and once brought howls of anguish from the press when he permitted his government limousine to tote eggs from his farm at Olney, Md., to Washington, D. C., while he was driving to work. Ickes took the nit-picking in his stride.

Those were days when the President—FDR—was surrounded by vigorous cabinet officers like Henry Wallace, Harry Hopkins, Henry Morgenthau, who took the rap, sometimes undeservedly, for their chief while the president went unscathed. Eisenhower used the same technique. He got a vicuna coat as well as Sherman Adams, but few people remember that.

This is tried and proven political technique — not only for presidents, but for military commanders and heads of big electrical companies which get caught violating the Sherman Antitrust Laws.

Harry Truman didn't use the technique. He stood up and took full responsibility for firing General MacArthu, instead of the defense department. And Kennedy took full responsibility for the fiasco in Cuba, though obviously he inherited much of it.

This is laudable. However, there is something to be said for the other technique of having the commander-in-chief stay behind the lines, away from the shot and shell, while subordinates get wounded in the front line. Wounds are necessary in battle.

The Old Curmudgeon

If Old Curmudgeon Ickes had been Secretary of the Interior when the Republican press howled about the recent letters of political solicitation sent by a friend to oilmen, he would have held a press conference and spoken as follows:

"I have in my hand a photostat of a check for $5,000 signed by Howard Keck of the Superior Oil Company and made out to the Eisenhower Dinner Committee. It is dated Jan. 16, 1956, which was right in the middle of the debate on the natural gas bill.

"Mr. Howard Keck and Superior Oil," Mr. Ickes would have continued, "are the very same people whose lobbyists got caught trying to bribe Senator Case of South Dakota during the gas debate.

"I am a bit surprised that the press would howl so loudly about some letters written by a friend to raise some money for the birthday dinner of one president when they completely ignored this check for $5,000 contributed—and cashed—for the anniversary dinner of another president.

"Perhaps the difference is that one is a Democrat, the other a Republican.

"But after all $5,000 in the hand is a lot more important than a lot of letters in the bush.

"The protests over these letters are the kind that should have been made over a tractor with a radio set which was given to a certain farm," the old curmudgeon would have continued, "or over that planting of Norway spruce with $300,000 worth of other gifts, including a putting green, which were donated to that certain farm.

"I am curious as to why the press gets in such a lather over letters raising money for a president's birthday dinner which were certainly not secret, but doesn't let out a peep of protest when a former president of the United States permitted three oilmen, Alton Jones of Cities Service, Billy Byars of Temple, Tex., and George Allen, to pay the entire cost, secretly, of his Gettysburg farm.

"I am especially curious about this, since never in history has any president permitted so many rich rewards — Tidelands Oil, the stacking of the Federal Power Commission, permits to drill for oil in wildlife refuges — to be handed the oil industry.

"Of course," the venerable Secretary of the Interior would have said, "oil contributions are the accepted way of political life. If the Republican Party did not get its contribution of $152,600 from the Rockefeller family of Standard Oil, or its $216,800 from the Pew family of Sun Oil, or its $100,150 from the Mellon family of Gulf Oil, as it did in the last Eisenhower election, it would feel robbed and cheated.

"So perhaps these soliciting letters sent out by a Shell Oil man, which is Dutch, aren't so bad. After all, Dutch Oil has little or no concessions to seek from the Department of the Interior."

Thus would have sounded off the man who served as Secretary of the Interior longer than anyone else in history.

Theater In A Fix

By John Crosby

The theater is truly in an awful fix. Robert Whitehead, president of the League of New York Theaters, has said: "We truly believe that additional burdens will bring about the extinction of the living theater as we have known it, perhaps as early as next season." Them's strong words and the terrible thing is that they are terribly accurate.

Mr. Whitehead's statement was made in an effort to get Mayor Wagner to eliminate the city 5-cent tax on tickets. It should be eliminated. But that wouldn't help much. If the government clamps down on the tax-deductible theater ticket, certainly if it clamped down on the charity tax deduction which is the theater party, the theater would truly be doomed.

Even without these disasters, the Broadway theater seems headed for extinction unless drastic changes are made — and tax eliminations won't help. Everything to do with the theater is too highly priced — playwrights, actors, stagehands (especially stagehands), musicians, property, scenery, lighting, theater rent. Ticket prices at $7.17 for straight shows and $8.57 for musicals are outrageous but actually they're not half as outrageous as they ought to be for shows when straight drama cost $125,000 and musicals cost $400,000.

Nothing should cost that much. But it will continue to be outrageously expensive to produce unless everyone from musicians to actors make sacrifices and this is about as likely as snow in July. Obviously, at current prices no one is going to take risks on Broadway and since risk and experiment are necessary — Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude," Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma" were all great risks that were immensely profitable — the theater is going to decline not only in vigor but in profits.

Off-Broadway is not much better and costs, while far lower than Broadway, are still outrageous. I think genuine freshness and vigor and originality is going to have to come from out of town. All over the country, little theaters and some professional repertory theaters are springing up — thousands of them — all training actors and directors and amateur stage hands. But they're all doing "Bus Stop." Or "Seven-Year Itch." There's hardly a theater in America — except the Frank Lloyd Wright in Dallas, the Alley in Houston, or the Poinciana Playhouse in Palm Beach — doing new plays.

This is a pity because new plays, far from the rapacity of Broadway unions, can be tried out for next to nothing. These little playhouses could nurture young playwrights as Joan Littlewood's theater workshop in England nurtured Shelagh Delaney and Brendan Behan. David Merrick has been using Paris and London stages as tryout towns for Broadway which is why Broadway is loaded with European plays, including all the best ones. It was not so long ago that it was the other way around—all European stages from Berlin to London were loaded with American plays.

We are living in an age of increasing leisure time and the quality of our use of that leisure is going to be of enormous importance to our cultural growth. Are we going to be a nation of time-wasters, turning on television to distract us until it's time to go to bed? I doubt that the country can stand this; in fact, I doubt that it puts up with it now. There's great cultural restlessness in America which is shown by the explosion of cultural activity from ballet companies to symphonies, concerts, little theaters, lectures, museums, across the country.

Sen. Javits has introduced a bill to establish a United States Arts Foundation which intends, among other things, to canalize and encourage the living theater in all its forms and I think this should be adopted. The foundation is modelled after the British and Canadian arts councils which have given such sustenance to the theaters in those countries.

Actually, the United States is the only civilized country anywhere which has given no governmental support to its theater or opera or arts. It's always been felt that these things would flourish best if the government stayed out of them. But spoken non-musical drama has almost expired already on Broadway.

Ready Reserve Standing By For Emergency

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Armed Forces Week is observed May 13-21. In the following dispatch written for UPI, J. Spencer Gray, editor and publisher of The Herald of Westchester, White Plains, N.Y., tells about the little heralded, but always ready, Army Reserve.)

By J. SPENCER GRAY
(Written for UPI)

He may be the man living down the block or next door. He may be the neighbor you nod to on the train. You might know him as an executive, a professional man or merely as a solid member of your community.

But, if war were to start, he'd suddenly vanish—because he is a selected reservist of the United States Army.

Enjoying little publicity and operating in some ways, under less-than-ideal conditions, the nation's Ready Reserve stands by, prepared for instant mobilization if a national emergency should arise.

Most of the men in the Ready Reserve have either had full tours of duty in the armed services, or at least six months active duty training.

All of them know exactly how they fit into the over-all-table of command of the nation's reserve arm.

If they were called, they would know their missions instantly.

As Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, commanding general of the U.S. Army Continental Command recently put it, "No victory in American military history has ever been won by a single arm, service or component of the Army.

"Victory in the field has always been the product of the combined efforts of regulars, guardsmen, reservists and Army civilians with all arms and services working as a compact team."

Holds True Today

This would hold just as true today as in the past—whether reservists should be called to fight in a localized conflict, or whether the worst should happen and all-out nuclear warfare exploded.

From the very outset of a shooting war, general or localized, all components and all arms and services would be involved.

Has nuclear war, with its incredible technological advances and highly specialized demands, made the reservists obsolete?

Absolutely not, the Army says. Gen. Clarke pointed out:

"The focal point of all our efforts is the ground combat soldier." (Modern concepts of defense have not changed this, he emphasized.)

George Fielding Eliot, regarded as among the nation's foremost observers of military affairs, recently underlined the necessity for giving to both full-time and part-time combat manpower, whatever peace-time training it requires to meet its war-time responsibilities.

Increasing Effectiveness

The Army has been training its reservists with ever increasing effectiveness.

But why the necessity for a reserve, when we are supporting today a fairly large peace-time active Army?

"With rising costs and a demand of other essential military expenditures," said Eliot, "It's neither politically nor economically possible to keep up an active Army of sufficient size to deal with all foreseeable emergencies.

"Today, the active Army alone cannot carry out the Army's mission of providing a well rounded defense capability.

"Today the reserve components —Army National Guard and Army Reserve—are essential elements of our ready forces.

"They are of greater importance now than ever before in our history."

Just what is the Army Reserve?

It consists of three parts — the Ready Reserve, the Standby Reserve, and the Retired Reserve.

The Ready Reserve is made up of units and individuals.

There are combat, combat support, supporting forces, special activities and mobilization base units.

The Ready Reserve also includes some 750,000 reinforcements or non-unit members who would provide replacements for combat losses and fill the full tables of organization in both the active Army and mobilized reserve units.

Couple Gets $16,000 For Children's Deaths

BALTIMORE (AP) — Superior Court Judge Michael J Manley Wednesday awarded $16,000 in damages to a couple whose three young children were killed in a grade-crossing accident two years ago.

The verdict was entered against Leonard Hall, trading as the Edgewater Cab Co., in a case filed after the accident Jan. 23, 1959.

The children—twins, age 6, and an older child, 7—were the youngsters of Mr. and Mrs. David Jones. The children died, along with cab driver William Dail, when the taxi was struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad train while the youngsters were on their way home from school.

The case was dismissed as to the railroad.

Most auto deaths occur in the nighttime despite its relatively light traffic.

City Police Make Plans For Sports Car Traffic

The City Police Department yesterday completed plans for controlling the free flow of traffic for the National Sports Car Races here Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Commissioner Philmore F. Fleming held a staff conference to work out all details of policing the project, which calls for the mobilization of the department.

All leaves have been cancelled for the weekend, the commissioner pointed out, explaining that approximately 60 members of the department will be on duty. The department staff will be augmented by about 15 members of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police, Fleming stated.

The 1 to 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. shifts have been pressed into duty on Saturday, with roll call scheduled at 1:30 p. m., so that all available men will be on hand for the parade that afternoon. The officers will be assigned places of duty by the shift commanders, Lt. W. E. Shank and Donald W. Smith.

All vehicular equipment will be used in conjunction with the parade, according to Chief B. F. Gaffney, who said it is hoped that Officer Murl Boggs and his K-9 "rookie" will be home from training school in time to ride in the parade.

Lt. Raymond R. Johnston, of the department's Tarffic Bureau, said all parking on Virginia Avenue will be banned for the parade, with the restriction taking effect at 1 p. m. Saturday. Parking also will be prohibited on the left side of the parade route, out Maryland Avenue, Williams Street, and Park Street to Baltimore.

The same parking restrictions will be in effect Sunday, Chief Gaffney said, adding that signs will be placed on Virginia Avenue at Fifth Street, designating the route for southbound traffic on U. S. Route 220 and westbound on U. S. 40. Cars bound in those directions will be routed uptown by way of Thomas Street and South Centre.

Race patrons bound north on 220 and east on 40 will travel on Virginia and Maryland avenues, Williams Street and Park Street to the Central YMCA intersection, where a number of policemen will be stationed to help control the flow of traffic.

Chief Gaffney and Assistant Chief John E. Sherry said the Baltimore and Ohio and Western Maryland have indicated they will cooperate by restricting the movement of railroad traffic during the parade Saturday and the peak period Sunday when vehicles are leaving the Municipal Airport.

Students Get Invitation To Visit Hospital

Sacred Heart Hospital is currently observing National Hospital Week with a series of programs.

Sister Mary Richard, administrator, said students in the various high schools in the Cumberland area have been invited to visit the hospital and view a number of exhibits which have been erected in Our Lady of the Mount Nurses Home.

The theme of the celebration is "Your Hospital, A Community Partnership." It is sponsored nationally by the American Hospital Association and is held each year during the week of Florence Nightingale's birthday, May 12.

The local hospital is featuring an exhibit on "Health Careers" and a film, "Helping Hands For Julie," produced by the American Hospital Association and the American Medical Association. The activities are climaxed with a tour of the hospital's laboratory and X-ray departments, emergency room, business offices, a nursing unit, central supply room, pharmacy, operating rooms and pediatric department.

Students have been invited from Allegany, Fort Hill, Ursuline Academy, Catholic Girls Central, Beall, Valley, Mt. Savage, St. Peter's of Westernport, Ridgeley, Bruce, Flintstone, Oldtown high schools and Eckhart Elementary.

Sister Mary Richard said a working partnership between hospital and community is necessary if a community's health is to be maintained at its highest level.

Without the hospital, many individuals would not realize their heritage of health," while without the community's support and understanding, the hospital would be unable to meet the community's health needs, the administrator noted.

Sister Mary Richard said the hospital's major responsibility in its community partnership is patient care. Patient care is constantly improving at the local hospital through medical advances, the purchase of new equipment and services and better training of personnel.

The community's role in the partnership for health is equally vital, the administrator noted, with the most direct tie being through the hospital's governing board, composed of community leaders.

The board of the local hospital, which is headed by Thomas B. Finan, attorney general of Maryland, meets twice monthly and sets policies for the hospital.

Another role for the community is to encourage young people to enter health careers, Sister said. The shortage in medical and paramedical personnel is a serious problem for the entire health field.

In conclusion, Sister Mary Richard said: "Only through a full partnership of an enlightened public, a learned and inspired medical profession and a dedicated hospital staff can the best of health care be given."

Railroads Will Protest Legislation

Today at 10 a. m. don't become alarmed if you hear a one-minute sustained blowing of horns.

It is the method which all railroads in Maryland will use to "blow the whistle" on James Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union in protest against Teamster-backed legislation in Congress.

Local B&O and Western Maryland Railway officials said the horns on all diesel locomotives will be sounded exactly at 10 a. m.

The sounding of the horns will not be a Civil Defense test or alert, but will be a protest by area railroads and employes against the legislation introduced which the rail lines claim will destroy substantially the moderate measure of competitive freedom found in our present law.

Railroaders said the bill "would authorize the Interstate Commerce Commission to force railroad rates to serve again as an "umbrella" for the charges trucks and water carriers desire to make for competing services. It could not help but destroy substantially the moderate measure of competitive freedom found in the present law. It would therefore operate not only to the detriment of the railroads but also to the detriment of shippers, consumers and the general public."

Borrowings Rise

NEW YORK (UPI)—Borrowings by New York Stock Exchange member firms rose $328 million in the four weeks ended April 26 to $2,945,000,000—partly reflecting credit extended to customers subscribing to the recent American Telephone & Telegraph financing. Borrowings amounted to $2,923,000,000 in the same period last year.

Ann Landers . . .
Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 27 and have been married for 10 years. This last year I've become bored with my husband, housework and marriage in general. I've taken self-improvement courses, become active in civic affairs and have even tried to spend more time with my children, but nothing helps. I feel a need for excitement.

Is this natural or is it a danger signal? Don't you feel it's as much a husband's place to keep his wife interested as it is her place to keep him from straying? Could it be that he's falling down on the job?

I need advice.—EDGEY

DEAR EDGEY: You've got the seven-year itch three years late. No marriage can be maintained at white-heat forever. It's bound to bog down and even get a little drab unless an effort is made to make things interesting.

Don't depend on your husband to keep your marriage hopping. For some reason this is the wife's department. She plans the social calendar and sets the tempo. It's up to you to feed marriage some vitamins. Maybe YOU are anemic. When did you last have a complete physical check-up?

DEAR ANN: A friend of ours whom we all love and respect married an obnoxious girl after a brief courtship. He's in his late 30's, and we were all so happy for him—until we met her.

She tells him to "shut his trap" when she doesn't agree with him and her conversation is vulgar and coarse. She is free with her "frank opinions" which are more like insults. In less than a month she has made herself thoroughly unpopular.

My husband says he's not going to put up with her even if it means dropping him. I hate to see this happen but I'm at a loss. Any suggestions?—STYMIED

DEAR STYMIED: Most people know at least one couple of which they say, "Love him, can't stand her"—or vice-versa. The couple usually falls out of favor, socially, as a unit. Perhaps if this happens to your friend, he'll wise up and teach his bride some manners.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I really have a problem. It is my seventh grade math teacher.

When she goes to explain something she puts it on the blackboard and then before it has a chance to soak in, she erases it. When she calls on me to do a problem and I don't know how, she says "Why weren't you listening?"

Please don't suggest that my parents help me with math at home. My dad is too busy and my mother says she never did understand it. She claims the math teachers passed her out of pity.

This teacher may be a genius but she isn't teaching me anything. I say if you haven't got it, you haven't got it. Can you help me?—D's

DEAR D's: I'm the wrong person to come to for help with a math problem. I haven't got it either.

Go to your teacher after class and ask for extra help. I'm sure she'll give it to you. Math teachers know that the subject is difficult for some people. If she feels you are really trying, she'll go out of her way to help you.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teen-agers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Words jotted down for the next few days can do wonders toward perfecting well-groomed speech.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Keep A Secret List

To make others listen to you, you must have something to say. Then, to make what you say pleasing, say it clearly in your best voice. But you have only to recall mistakes in speech others make, and pronunciation which jarred on your ears, to realize there's another point in speaking that cannot be ignored.

The very fact that you hear errors means that you're probably not making too many yourself—the danger lies in not hearing them. Almost no one escapes making occasional mistakes, however, a checkup now and then is very much in order if you're to perfect the well-groomed speech that makes all the other sparkling facets of your most charming self.

For a few days now, keep a secret list. Without seeming to notice them, jot down mistakes in speaking as you hear others make them. Ask yourself about each one—do I say that? You might—it's more difficult to hear yourself, and what you say wrongly from long habit may slip past your ear.

Check with a dictionary or a grammar when in doubt, because what's wrong sometimes sounds right, while what's right may sound wrong. But be careful to keep your speech and pronunciation easy and natural or you risk sounding affected.

You might take time out to send for my booklet, "Your Most Attractive Voice." It's yours for 10c and a stamped, return envelope addressed to, "Secrets of Charm," c/o this newspaper.

Remember, careless speech is accepted because it's so common. That doesn't make it right for you.

True charm makes you a special person, one who sets herself high standards and lives by them, who cares more than an ordinary person and takes more pains to be attractive, interesting and of value to others.

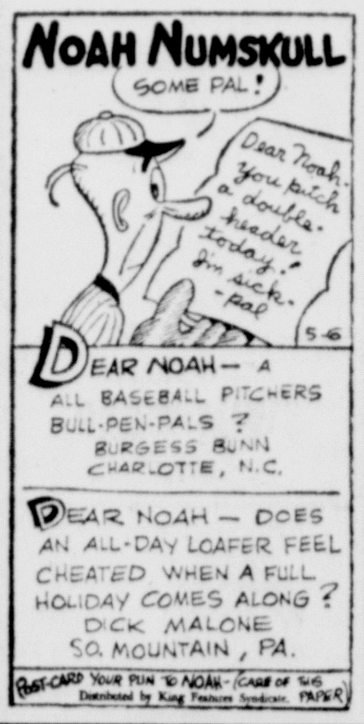
Opening lead: Seven of ♥

Careful handling of the trump suit netted one declarer an overtrick and a top score in a hand taken from the Open Pair event of the recent National Championship tournament held in Denver.

South lacked the strength for a free bid after East's one heart overcall, but when North reopened the bidding with a take-out double South should have jumped to two spades to compensate for the discouraging sound of his original pass. Surely, partner, cognizant of South's previous failure to act, could hardly expect more than this. North was in the fortunate position of being well enough fortified to carry on by cue bidding the opponent's suit, and the game in spades was reached in easy stages.

The seven of hearts was opened and taken by dummy's ace. Declarer saw that he had 10 top tricks if the trump suit could be played in a manner to lose only one trick. The normal procedure with this combination is to take two finesses, but South had little faith that West held both the king and jack of spades. As a safety measure, declarer cashed the ace of spades at trick two. He then played a club to his jack and returned a low spade. West played the jack and dummy's queen forced out the king. No matter what East returned, South was able to draw the last trump and claim four spade tricks, five clubs, one heart and one diamond for 11 tricks.

At some tables a bit of carelessness by declarer resulted in the loss of the contract. After winning the opening heart lead the singleton diamond was led from dummy. West captured the queen with his ace and returned his last heart which South ruffed. A spade was led and the queen finessed. East captured the trick with the king and played another heart. Declarer ruffed with the ten of spades and West over-ruffed with the jack. A diamond was returned and South was helpless to prevent East from taking another trump trick, for if he ruffed with the nine of spades it would establish East's eight of spades for the setting trick.



Keeping Up With Hollywood
by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Despite the obvious handicaps involved in making a movie about the controversial John Birch Society—Edward G. Robinson is being sought as the star and producer Alex Gordon is rushing ahead with his plans at Columbia.

"The Gordons (Mildred and Gordon Gordon) are already at work on the screenplay," Alex told me. "I think they are the right team for this. Gordon is a former FBI man and they've just completed a fine script of their novel 'Operation Terror' for me."

I asked him if he wasn't already getting headaches over handling the hot John Birch Society potato. "We'll just have to take the problems as they come up," he philosophized.

Fifteen million dollars is a lot of moola to spend on one picture and a years' time is a long shooting schedule—but this is the set-up for shooting "The Longest Day" in Europe. I ran into Gerd Oswald on his way to Paris to meet Darryl Zanuck and he told me he will direct two of the episodes of the D-Day invasion instead of the one previously announced.

"One of my first appointments in France is with Noel Coward, our story consultant on the paratrooper landing. And then I'll see Erick Maria Remarque, our advisor on the sequence involving the British siege of the Oure Bridge," Gerd told me.

"Theres' no actual star, as such. Each of the six dramatic episodes has its own set of heroes and heavies inter-related in the Allied invasion.'

A sex-kitten, as well as a cat, can look at a queen and Yvette Mimieux sent an air mail-special delivery about her excitement over Queen Elizabeth visiting the "Light in the Piazza" company in Italy. "Olivia De Havilland, Rossano Brazzi, George Hamilton and I are so excited I doubt if the scenes will go smoothly with the Queen and Prince Philip looking on.

"I also wanted to tell you that while in London I saw Leslie Caron on the stage in 'Ondine' and she is wonderful. I asked Arthur Freed to buy it for MGM (and ME, of course) but he wouldn't commit himself.

"We're living in a century-old castle which has been modernized to push button magic, even to telephones in the bathroom! Join the movies and live it up, I say," Yvette writes.

Had an interesting conversation with Kier Dullea, who is very thrilled that "The Hoodlum Priest" in which he plays the condemned boy, is being shown at the Cannes Film Festival along with "Raisin in the Sun." He told me that Don Murray has already left for Cannes.

But young Dullea's sights right now are on the exciting stage venture coming up in which a group of Ernest Hemingway stories, "Death in the Afternoon" and "Snows of Kilimanjaro" among them will be condensed into an evening's viewing. A.E. Hotchner, who dramatizes all the Hemingway properties, has written the show.

Kier tells me Rod Steiger is the star and the break-in is in Seattle Aug. 14, followed by dates in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Combining business with their honeymoon, Arlene Dahl and Chris Holmes are in New York closing a two picture deal for their independent company with United Artists.

It's interesting that the first they have in mind is a factual one based on the life of an Irish girl who became the mistress of Lopez, the dictator of Paraguay a hundred years ago. It just so happens that Chris Holmes owns the biggest and most active ranch in Paraguay and the picture would be shot there. That's handy—being rich enough to own your own location site, if you ask me.

Robert Sterling starts a new TV series (that's a switch in itself, starting one instead of ending one) called "Ichabod." And guess who has a big financial interest in it? Nobody but Mr. Jack Benny.

I wish I could tell you that the idea of "Ichabod" is something new. But I understand it is another "family" situation comedy. Not that there's anything wrong with family situations, they are very popular—but not exactly original.

Underground Cattle Ranch Is Proposed

W.Va. Coal Mines Being Considered

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Ever see an underground cattle ranch? Well, it's apparently not just a pipe dream and you just might be in for a surprise one of these days.

The State Agriculture Department says cattle raising might go underground in West Virginia, just like chicken raising and mushroom farming.

Assistant Agriculture Commissioner Gus R. Douglass said Wednesday that the underground mushroom and chicken farms have been such a success that "there is even consideration being given to raising cattle underground."

Douglass said cattlemen believe the even temperatures underground might be of help to them. "Don't be too surprised if this isn't a reality in another year or so," he said.

Virginians To Visit

Douglass said the present underground farms have created so much attention that officials from other states plan to come to West Virginia to take a look at them.

He said a group of agricultural field specialists from Virginia will visit West Virginia May 23-24 for a tour of two chicken raising operations.

The specialists will tour an abandoned railroad tunnel near Ronceverte in Greenbrier County and a limestone cavern in Preston County.

The operation in Greenbrier County is now well under way. About 30,000 chicks now are eight weeks old and before long will be caged layers.

The Preston County operation is at Rowlesburg where a limestone mine now houses 500,000 layers. Douglass said the total will soon be increased to more than 1 million.

Use Lights

"There are 91 acres available there for expansion," Douglass said. "It is just hard to describe what this undertaking might be in a few years."

The farmers use artificial lighting to control the laying of the hens and the ventilation is handled by large fans.

School Holiday Is Planned In W. Va. May 30

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—At least seven West Virginia counties have scheduled a school holiday Memorial Day, May 30, on the assumption Gov. W. W. Barron will make it official through a proclamation, State Board of School Finance Supervisor William K. Hamilton said Tuesday.

Two other counties, Ohio and Raleigh, have scheduled it as a regular school day, apparently on the assumption that it's not a school holiday until Barron or President Kennedy makes it so, Hamilton said. The seven scheduling May 30 as a holiday were Cabell, Hancock, Kanawha, Marion, Mineral, Randolph and Summers.

The school calendars of Fayette and Morgan Counties were incomplete, Hamilton said. All the other counties plan to recess for the summer holidays before May 30.

If the day is not officially declared a holiday, counties can still close the schools on Memorial Day but will have to make the time up later.

Pierce Withdraws From Moorefield Food Company

MOOREFIELD — Melvin C. Pierce, founder of Pierce Pre-Cooked Foods, Inc., Moorefield, W. Va., announced Monday that he and his wife, Lucille E. Pierce, have withdrawn from active management and ownership of the food processing firm bearing their name. The company is one of the nation's leading processors of pre-cooked poultry products for restaurant use. The announcement was made at a dinner party for management personnel held at the McNeill Hotel.

Mr. Pierce stated that arrangements were recently completed whereby all stock presently held by the Pierces will be transferred to Wendell Hester, who assumes presidency of the firm. Hester joined the company in 1953, shortly before it moved to Moorefield from Ann Arbor, Mich. He has served as general manager for eight years.

Mr. Pierce explained that he has been working on a retail poultry product for the past two years and this move would enable him to complete the test marketing prior to its introduction to the trade. This new product, he stated, would extend to the housewife the same convenience of preparation and excellence of flavor that have made the company's restaurant products so successful.

The Pierces expressed their sincere gratitude to the businessmen of Moorefield for the support they had extended to the firm since it located in Moorefield. Mr. Pierce also stated he is confident that under the continued management of Hester the company would expand its sales and scope of activity, thus providing ever-increasing employment and benefit to the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce also expressed their personal satisfaction in being associated with the fine people in this valley and extended to all of their acquaintances, best wishes. The Pierces will continue to reside at 913 North B Street, Lake Worth, Fla.

Campaign Opens To Raise $190,000 For Scout Camp

PARSONS, W. Va. — Tucker County chairman of the $190,000 Boy Scout Camp Mahonegan Building Fund will be Edward S. Filler, president of the United Utilities of West Virginia and vice president of the Duncan Telephone Company.

EDWARD S. FILLER

This announcement was made by co-chairmen Fred Iden, Buckhannon and Stephen Canonico, Clarksburg. Mr. Filler immediately appointed, Harold J. Painter manager of the Cumberland & Allegany Gas Company, Parsons, as co-chairman.

"Campaign division chairmen will be named in Thomas, Parsons, Davis and Hendricks," Filler outlined.

In commenting on the proposed enlargement of the camp, Filler pointed out that it is a good camp, but too small. He said, "There are three times as many Boy Scouts as there were when Camp Mahonegan was opened in 1947. In addition to the Cub Scouts who will soon be of Scouting age, there are hundreds of boys wanting to be Scouts but hesitating to join, due to the fact that there will be no room in camp for them."

Campaign leaders state the demand for a larger camp comes from the boys themselves with the subsequent results that if Scouting is to advance in Tucker County, expansion and renovation must be made.

Mr. Filler has been past president West Virginia Telephone Association, graduated from Fort Hill High School, Cumberland, Maryland, President Clay Citizen Telephone Company, director the National Bank of Davis, Major U. S. Army reserve, active in Legion and Veteran Foreign Wars, member of the Charleston Army and Navy Club and enthusiastic skier, and member of the Washington Ski Club.

Mr. Filler praised the Scout movement for having contributed great good to the boys throughout the County. "Scouting is a tremendous program and having been a Boy Scout in Cumberland, Md., knows the excellent training it affords boys.

Beall Snaps Fort Hill's 18-Game Winning Streak, 6-5

Tigers Defeat Senators, 7-1, For 18th Win

Detroit Tightens Grip On First Spot

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, who've done almost nothing wrong in 24 games, tightened their grip on first place in the American League Wednesday by throttling the Washington Senators 7-1 behind Jim Bunning's five-hit pitching.

The last-place Senators could do little right as their pitchers hit three batters and walked four and their fielders committed three errors. The Tigers, the league's new go-go team, stole four bases.

Winning their 18th game with six defeats the Tigers rapped three Washington pitchers for 10 hits and made almost all of them count.

They sent 10 men to bat in the second inning and for all practical purposes ended the ball game right there. Five Tigers hit safely in the big inning and four of them scored.

A hit batsman led to Detroits' fifth run in the fourth and the Tigers added two more in the eighth on only one hit. Johnny Klippstein, third Nat pitcher, issued two walks, hit another and gave up a single to Steve Boros.

Billy Bruton stole two bases in the eighth and reserve outfielder Bubba Morton one and Nat catcher Gene Green committed two throwing errors.

Bruton stole both second and third bases and continued on home when Green's throw sailed into left field. Morton, subbing for Al Kaline, walked, stole second and went on to third when Green's throw went into center field. Boros' single scored Morton.

Kaline was lifted in the second inning after pulling a thigh muscle running out a grounder in the first. He likely will return to action Thursday for the final game of the series before the Tigers depart on an 18-game road trip that observers feel will determine whether the club has the stuff to stay in the thick of the pennant race.

Giants Blank Pirates, 3-0

McCormick Hurls, Bats Team To Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Southpaw Mike McCormick pitched his second three-hit shutout of the season and drove in two runs as the San Francisco Giants, also held to three hits, beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0 tonight.

The Giants got all their hits off losing right-hander Bob Friend in the fifth inning—the only frame in which they put a man on base.

After two men were out in the inning, Felip Alou beat out a slow roller down the third base line and went to second as Don Hoak threw wild. Ed Bailey was intentionally walked. Jose Pagan singled to center, scoring Alou and Bailey went to third and Pagan to second when Bill Virdon bobbled the ball. McCormick then bounced a single over second scoring both runners.

McCormick was in trouble only in the fifth and sixth innings. He gave up a single and walk in each of these frames. Dick Stuart singled in the ninth for the other Pirate hit.

Price Victim As Mounties Rally In 5th

Three Double Plays Mark Clash; Winners Score 6th In Row

A three-run rally in the fifth inning by Beall High's Mountaineers snapped a pair of long winning streaks for Fort Hill and pitcher John Price and gave Coach Enordo Arnone's Frostburg nine its sixth consecutive victory in the Allegany County High School League yesterday at Fort Hill. The score was 6-5.

The Sentinels suffered their first loss this season and the defeat ended an 18-game winning skein which had extended over parts of three seasons. Price, the ace of the Hilltoppers' mound staff, had not lost a game in his high school career until Beall roughed him up in the fifth frame of yesterday's game to snap a 3-3 tie. The defeat was the first for Price who had won 11 consecutive games for Fort Hill in three years.

Relieved Manges

Price had gone in to relieve starter Ronnie Manges after Beall had scored single tallies in the first three innings.

The fastballing righthander whiffed 10 Mounties in 4⅔ innings but the fatal fifth caught up to him when Jim Wilson was hit by a pitch and Evans beat out a sacrifice bunt for an infield single. Allen Eisel singled home the tie-breaking run and McKenzie hit a sacrifice fly to deep center to score the second tally. Jim Haupt's single scored Eisel to conclude the scoring.

Warner picked up the victory in relief of Allen, pitching two-hit ball for 4⅔ frames after Fort Hill scored three in the first two innings.

The Sentinels bounced back in the sixth against Warner when Manges singled with one away and Melvin Nines hit a pinch home run while batting for Larry McKay. In the seventh Fort Hill threatened again when Price was hit with a pitch and Butch Bosley sacrificed him to second.

Lines Into Double Play

Henry walked as a pinch hitter bringing Bill Diehl in to relieve. Delbert Helmick then lined sharply to Eisel at second and he touched the bag to complete the game-ending double play against Price.

The tightly-fought contest was marked by three double plays, two by the victors and one by Fort Hill.

Haupt rapped out two hits for Beall while five Fort Hill players shared the Sentinels' bingles. Price doubled and Rich Parsons tripled for Fort Hill in addition to Nines' pinch homer.

Yesterday's triumph also ended a string of 13 straight losses by Beall to Fort Hill who had not lost to the Mountaineers since 1954.

Mt. Savage High's Indians got a superb pitching performance from lefty Wayne Howell who blanked Bruce High's Bulldogs, 4-0, at Westernport yesterday in another Allegany County Baseball League tilt.

The loss was the fourth shutout defeat in a row for Bruce which has not scored a run in its last 27 innings of play. The Bulldogs lost to LaSalle, 2-0; Fort Hill 12-0; Allegany 3-0; and Mt. Savage in the stretch. Bruce has won only its opener against Valley and is now 1-5 in the league.

Indians Belt Homers

The victory was Mt. Savage's third in league play against two losses.

Howell picked up his second pitching victory with a neat four-hitter. He struck out nine in besting Donnie Raines who whiffed 12 but was the victim of six teammates' errors.

Robertson paced his team to victory at the plate, too, banging out a double, single and home run in three trips. His circuit blow accounted for two runs in the third for the Indians. John Lowery closed out the Mt. Savage scoring with a homer in the seventh.

Twins Score 9 In Second, Beat Orioles

Minnesota Homers Pace 10-6 Victory

ST. PAUL-Minneapolis, Minn. (UPI)—Minnesota jumped on Baltimore starter Dick Hall and reliefer Wes Stock for nine runs in the second inning Wednesday and went on to defeat the Orioles, 10-6.

Home runs by Billy Gardner, Zoilo Versalles and Harmon Killibrew highlighted the inning in which 12 Twins went to the plate. Gardner and Killebrew connected with two men on while Versalles' blast came with the bases empty.

Baltimore's Jerry Adair hit his third and fourth home runs of the season.

Jack Kralick, who started for Minnesota, picked up his third win in four decisions. Hall was the loser.

The Orioles took a 1-0 lead in the second on Adair's solo blast.

The Birds picked up two more in the fourth on a walk to Ron Hansen and singles by Gus Triandos, Adair and pinchhitter Dave Philley. Baltimore also picked up a single run in the fifth and two more in the eighth on Adair's second home run.

The Twins picked up their 10th run in the third when Versalles doubled in Jim Lemon, who had walked.

Loi Keeps Title Despite Knockdown

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Italy's Diulio Loi survived a last round knockdown by ex-champion Carlos Ortiz of New York and retained his world junior welterweight title Wednesday night with a unanimous 15-round decision.

Loi, winning the rubber match of a three-fight series, weighed 138, Ortiz 136¾.

Comfortably ahead on points after dropping Ortiz in the sixth round, Loi ran into a solid right from the 24-year-old Puerto Rico-born challenger midway in the 15th round. Loi wasn't hurt seriously, however, and bounced right up before a count could start and stayed out of trouble until the bell.

Both judges and the referee, Frank Carter of San Francisco, who officiated at Ortiz' request, voted for the stocky, 32-year-old Italian. The bout was watched by 40,000 fans, who braved a cold wind in the outdoor San Siro Soccer Stadium.

It was the first defense of the championship by Loi, who lifted the title from Ortiz by a split decision here last September.

Loi, who has been rumored ready to retire to concentrate on his restaurant business, won his 105th bout in a 113-fight career that began in 1948. He has lost two and fought six draws.

The loss was Ortiz' fourth in 38 fights. He won 33, and fought to one no-decision.

Ortiz, who won the title when the junior welter crown was reactivated in 1959 after a 13-year lapse, won their first fight on points in San Francisco last June 15. Loi rallied to win the rematch in September in a verdict loudly protested by Ortiz, who blamed Italian officiating and insisted he wanted an American referee if there was to be another bout.

Corle Recovers From Spill, Wins Pimlico Feature

BALTIMORE, Md., May 10 (AP)—Jockey Bobby Corle, 25-year-old jockey from Imler, Pa., suffered a spill in the sixth race here at Pimlico today, but came back to win the Pikesville Purse, featured eighth race, with Hill-N-Dale Farm's Polarity, the 2-to-1 favorite.

Outrun in the first part of the one-mile contest, Polarity closed willing in his first start on the infield turf and was up to win by a half length from Edward P. McDaniel, Jr.'s Mr. Bernie, who placed about two lengths in front of Bayard Sharp's Sunshine Cake, who closed fastest of all.

Apparently stumbling in the first stride, All Things Nice unloaded Corle when the break came in the sixth race. The 25-year-old rider jumped up immediately, however, and was second on Seven Corners in the seventh race.

$40,000 Duel With Player Is Forecast

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, whose best finish in the $40,000 Colonial National Invitation has been a 12th place ti in six years of trying, still was the favorite Wednesday as a field of 57 went through final tuneup rounds.

A Palmer-Gary Player duel was forecast in the odds with Palmer, who has won th most tournaments of the golf tour this year —four—given a 6-1 rating.

Player, winner of the Masters and leading money winner, was 8-1.

Next in line were Julius Boros, the defending champion, and Ben Hogan, who has won the championship five times, last time in 1959. Tommy Bolt was given a good chance by his fellow players.

Fight Postponed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Illness of Buffalo lightweight Jackie Donnelly has forced the postponement —and perhaps cancellation—of a 10-round bout with Paolo Rosi, promoter Pedro Marginez announced Wednesday.

The boxing match had been scheduled for next Tuesday.

Liston Names Katz As New Fight Manager

Contender Seeking Patterson Bout

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Boxing's No. 1 contender for the heavyweight title, Charles (Sonny) Liston, Wednesday named George Katz his new manager with the indirect blessings of Sen. Estes Kefauver and his Senate investigating committee.

Katz, a slightly built-ex-politician who managed former welterweight contender Gil Turner, pledged as his first order of business to get Liston a title fight with champion Floyd Patterson.

"I do believe," said Hatz, a fight manager in these parts since 1928, "that there should be any obstacle in my procuring for Sonny Liston his rightful opportunity to obtain the match with Floyd Patterson for the heavyweight championship."

Liston told a news conference that with Katz as his manager he had in effect "cleaned his house" of what the Senate committee and Patterson described as an undesirable element in the challenger's management.

The Kefauver committee said earlier this year that Liston's former manager, Pep Barone of Allentown, Pa., was a front for racketeers. Patterson has said repeatedly he wouldn't fight Liston until Sonny "cleaned house."

Liston recently bought his contract from Barone for $75,000 — payable in two equal installments —and went after Katz as his new manager.

Al Klein, of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, said his office conducted a thorough investigation of Katz and found "no valid reason for. . . . refusal to approve him as Liston's manager.

Klein, as an attorney and a former member of Kefauver's committee, said he had been asked by the senator to help Liston get a good manager.

The Senate committee in its investigation referred to Frank (Blinky) Palermo and Frankie Carbo, alleged racketeers now on trial in California for conspiracy involving a boxer, as the real managers of Liston.

Capon Bridge Beats Eagles

Wins First PVC Contest, 4 To 1

Rick Davy limited Fort Ashby's Eagles to three hits as he pitched Capon Bridge High's tossers to their first victory this season yesterday in the Potomac Valley Conference. The score was 4-1. Fort Ashby's record is 2-6-1.

Capon Bridge had lost six straight baseball games until yesterady's triumph snapped the dearth. Vernon Isner, Fort Ashby lefthander, was the victim.

Capon Bridge scored a run in the first on a walk and two errors and another in the third on two walks and a single. Lloyd Brill and George Orndorff shared four of the winners' five hits.

Chuck McCort, Vernon Isner and Gary Mangus collected the three singles permitted by Davy who whiffed eight and walked only two. The lineups:

Three Preakness Probables Hold Track Workouts

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three probable starters in the $150,000 Preakness on May 20 were on the Pimlico track Wednesday for light gallops.

Working out were Sherluck, fifth in the Kentucky Derby; Globemaster, sixth in the Derby, and Crimson Fury.

The other Preakness hopeful on the grounds, Dr. Miller, was walked for the second straight day and will gallop Thursday. Dr. Miller finished fourth in the Derby.

All but Sherluck are expected to run in the $10,000 Preakness Prep Saturday.

Sherluck's trainer, Harold Young, said today he would contact Eddie Arcaro's agent to determine whether Arcaro will be available to ride Sherluck in the Preakness.

Arcaro, who rode Sherluck in the Derby, is scheduled to be up on Bowl of Flowers in the Acorn Stakes in New York on Preakness day.

Carry Back and Crozier, one-two finishers in the Derby last Saturday, are expected to arrive at Pimlico Friday.

Veteran of the 500-mile race at Indianapolis on Memorial Day is Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley, Park, Ill., who will be going in his 15th event.

Market Prices Slightly Off On Heavy Turnover

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fast-moving speculative issues featured congested trading on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday as prices finished slightly lower on the heaviest turnover in a month.

Volume increased 70,000 shares from Tuesday as 5,450,000 shares changed hands, the most since April 10.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index ended showing a loss of 0.06. The Dow-Jones industrials were off 0.31 at 686.61.

A fairly broad total of 1,300 issues were traded — two more than in the prior session but eight less than a week ago. Of these, 529 advanced, 101 to new highs, and 568 declined, 10 to new lows.

Leading steels and motors were narrowly mixed within the averages while chemicals advanced featuring gains of over a point in Du Pont and Union Carbide. American Cyanamid, however, fell 1⅛ on a company statement that talk about the effectiveness of its arthritis drug was premature.

American Standard was the day's most active issue, up ⅝ on 258,200 shares. It was followed consecutively by Avnet down another 3⅞, Chadbourn Gotham up ¾, Thiokol up ⅜, and Lockheed up 2.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—A strong buying wave shortly before the final bell propelled old crop soybeans to the daily 10-cent limit Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Other grains milled around the previous level in light trading.

Wheat closed off ⅝ to up ⅛, corn unchanged to up ⅛, oats up ¼ to ¾, rye off ¼ to up ¼, soybeans up ¼ to 10, and drummed lard off 13 to up 15 points.

Soybeans jumped off to an active and strong start on a larger than expected figure for weekly export inspections.

Profit-taking cut sharply into the early advance, and trading tapered off around mid-morning. Short covering and general commission buying rallied prices near the close.

Wheat recovered from early lows on commission and export buying. Trade was light. A commercial house bought December. The first load of new wheat arrived at Houston, Tex., about two weeks ahead of last year.

Corn showed little change. Commercial brokers bought July, and spreading continued between May and distant contracts. Fair weather was expected to spur spring planting operations.

Oats advances on scattered commercial and local buying. Rye futures were mostly steady.

Exporters said Japan bought 100,000 bushels of soybeans and six cargoes of hard and white wheat. West Germany took about 1,000,000 bushels of oats. Yugoslavia so far this week bought 2,760,000 bushels of hard wheat and was in the market for another 750,000 tons. Colombia took 1,600,000 bushels of corn.

Outside markets were mostly steady.

Aussie Tunes Up For '500'

Flies From U.S. To Monaco Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jack Brabham, the world's road racing champion from Australia, is tuning up with transatlantic jet hops for his first crack at the 500-mile Memorial Day race.

The handsome Aussie's speed has caused veteran observers to rate him a real threat in the golden anniversary classic May 30.

Brabham turned in a practice qualifying run Wednesday at about 146 miles an hour, considered easily good enough to place him in the 33-car starting lineup.

Then the 35-year-old driver jumped into a car and zipped to the airport under police escort to catch a commercial jet flight to New York and make connections for qualifying Thursday in the Monaco Grand Prix.

From Monaco, it's back here by jet Friday night in time to enter the first qualifying round at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway Saturday.

Brabham hopes to qualify his rear-engine Cooper-Climax early and catch a jet in plenty of time to race in Monaco Sunday.

After that, he'll fly back here for more practice—or another attempt at qualifying May 20 if Saturday's attempt doesn't succeed.

Crozier, one of the Derby hopefuls, is named for a construction superintendent for owner Fred W. Hooper's building enterprises.

Barton Tossers Trim Zihlman

Win 4th Twilight League Game, 8-1

Louis Fazenbaker held Zihlman to four hits as Barton won its fourth straight Twilight Baseball League encounter yesterday at Zihlman. The score was 8-1.

The loss was the first for Zihlman in three league starts while Barton's defending champions remained unbeaten. The win was the second of the season for Fazenbaker.

Barton broke the game wide open in the seventh inning when the Braves tallied five times, three coming in on Ed Warnick's home run.

Warnick, Jack Lechliter and Woody Symons had two hits apiece for Barton while Jack Atkinson smacked a double for Zihlman's only extra base blow.

The Danville Rebels play at Westernport, Franklin visits Barton and Klondyke's Colts invade Zihlman for league games today at 5:30 p.m. Yesterday's results:

Barton	201 000 5—	8	8	0
Zihlman	000 100 0—	1	4	0

Louis Fazenbaker and Ed Warnick. Jack Patterson and Bob Mannick. HR—Warnick (Barton).

Labor Survey To Be Pushed For This Area

Development Effort Will Be Undertaken

Fourteen prominent individuals with varied responsibilities but a common interest in the economic development of Western Maryland met yesterday afternoon at the Fort Cumberland Hotel to lay the groundwork for efforts to obtain assistance under the new Area Development Act.

Primarily, the conferees are interested in submitting a letter in the near future to William L. Batt Jr., who was designated May 1 by President John F. Kennedy as administrator of the federal area redevelopment program. Mr. Batt, who has been Pennsylvania secretary of labor and industry, is considered familiar with this Cumberland Tri-State area.

This letter to Mr. Batt is planned as an application for federal assistance in the preparation of a labor survey by the Maryland Department of Employment Security. This survey would be designed to determine the labor needs of existing industries, the skills available from the unemployed labor force and the types of retraining that will be necessary to equip the unemployed with skills which may be needed by new industries.

Updates 1952 Study

The proposed survey would amount to an updating of a 1952 survey undertaken here.

While the Maryland survey might concentrate on Allegany and Garrett counties, the conferees hope that similar surveys might be conducted simultaneously in Pennsylvania for Bedford and Somerset counties and in West Virginia for Mineral and Hampshire counties because the local labor supply comes from all six counties.

This survey would be undertaken as the first step in the preparation of a workable program for economic redevelopment.

Leonard C. Neff Jr., who is resigning June 1 as director of the Cumberland Industrial Development Corporation, acted as the unofficial chairman of yesterday's meeting which brought together federal, state, county and local officials as well as representatives of labor and the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Federal Officials Here

Federal representatives were Gabriel Cherin, assistant chief of Division of Special Studies and Research Development of the U.S. Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., and Marvin L. Shirley of Chambersburg, Pa., who is deputy regional director of the Bureau of Employment Security.

Others at the meeting included George W. Hubley, director, and William A. Pate, deputy director of the State Department of Economic Development; Alvin H. Wilson, this city, one of the 12 members of the State Economic Development Commission; Robert B. Kimble, former state senator from Allegany County, now ending a six-year term as executive director of the State Department of Employment Security; Francis A. Kenney, manager of the local office of the State Department of Employment Security; Josiah E. Mullenax, president of the Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO; C. N. Sanner, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Chamber of Commerce; Garland L. Johnston, president of the Cumberland Industrial Development Corporation; John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, and Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

Long Company, an independent bakers' cooperative, will deliver the principal address at the Merchandising Institute to be sponsored by the Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland at 6 p.m. Wednesday, May 17, at the LaVale Fire Hall.

The subject of Mr. Copell's address, scheduled for 9 p.m. May 17, is "There's Still a Place for the Independent But He Must Fight To Maintain It."

All food dealers, their employees, allied tradesmen and their families are urged to attend the institute. The only cost is for the dinner, which will be served at 6:45 p.m. by the Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department.

In 1947, he received the Presidential Merit Award for this work.

Jury Awards Husband, Wife $1,072 Total

Salary Dispute Aired In Court

A South Cumberland husband and wife were awarded verdicts totaling $1,072 yesterday by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury which deliberated about one hour.

Mrs. Frances Anne Ritter, 1321 Virginia Avenue, was awarded $640, and her husband, Don H. Ritter, received a $432 verdict. Blaine A. Willetts, Wrights Crossing, was foreman of the jury of nine men and two women. The 12th juror was ill.

The two suits were filed against Win-Ann Storkland Corporation and Jay Pile and Winifred Pile, his wife, individually, LaVale Shopping Center.

Mrs. Ritter, who had sued for $1,000, contended that she began working at Win-Ann Storkland March 1, 1960, under a verbal contract, which, she contended, provided that she should receive 49 shares of stock in the firm in return for her services in the store. She contends that she received no pay for 16 weeks of work and then was discharged by Mr. Pile on July 19, 1960, on a false accusation.

Mr. Ritter brought his suit for $400 for services he contended he performed between March 1 and July 19, 1960.

The verdict for Mrs. Ritter amounts to $40 a week for the 16 weeks, and for Mr. Ritter, $27 weekly for the 16 weeks.

Attorneys John C. Sullivan and Milton Gerson represented the Ritters while Gorman E. Getty was attorney for the defendants.

Dental Care Group Plan Possibility

BALTIMORE (AP) — A dental care insurance program for Maryland residents will be in operation within a year, according to Dr. Russell P. Smith, chairman of a 10-member committee studying the plan.

Smith disclosed details of the plan Wednesday at the conclusion of the Baltimore City Dental Society convention. The insurance plan, to be known as the Dental Service Corporation, will operate like the Blue Shield plan, under which subscribers make regular payments for medical services they may receive in the future.

Smith said the plan would be offered on a group basis at first, and might be made available to individuals later. The organization does not plan to solicit subscribers but will accept applications from groups of employes.

The study committee is investigating existing dental insurance plans in five other states. The Maryland plan will be regulated by the State Insurance Commission, and will be required to have at least $10,000 in capital before it may begin accepting subscribers.

Stolen Safe Found; Cash Is Missing

A 1,000-pound safe containing about $400 in cash and $25,000 in charge account records which was taken early yesterday morning from the Garrett Truck Company, located a short distance from Oakland on U. S. Route 219, was found later in the day by a forest warden.

Also taken from the firm, authorities said, were about $1,000 worth of tools, including a cutting torch. A truck used to transport the safe and tools was found abandoned on Forest Street near an Oakland service station.

The safe was forced open and the cash removed. The intruders left behind the records.

Elmer Uphole, forest warden who was on duty yesterday, said he noticed smoke in the area and upon investigation located the safe and notified authorities, who last night were continuing the investigation in search of suspects.

Assisting Garrett County Deputy Sheriff Wayne Wilt are Cpl. Robert D. Henline and Trooper D. A. Tucker.

The safe and tools were taken from the firm sometime between midnight and the time the place was opened for business yesterday morning. The safe was recovered between Oakland and Deer Park.

Injured Student Remains On 'Critical' List

William Gregory, a 17-year-old student at a Virginia agricultural school, is in "critical" condition at Hampshire Memorial Hospital, Romney, W. Va., where he was admitted late Monday night with injuries sustained in a highway accident.

Attaches said last night the youth's condition is slightly improved although he remains on the critical list. Three other students were also hurt in the accident and were kept overnight in the hospital.

Gregory, of Springfield, Va., reportedly suffered serious head injuries when he was a passenger when the car in which he was a passenger went out of control and wrecked on U. S. Route 50 three miles west of Romney.
